RED CROSS FUND GETS FLYING START

We Know Where We're Going and We're on Our Way to Raise $100,000 for the Red Cross in Ulster County, Although We are Asked for Only $75,000.

Advances subscriptions, $19,575.

That is the peroration of the most inspiring and convincing speech made at the meeting of Red Cross workers, held in the K. of C. Hall on Thursday evening.

And the speech itself was the list of names of contributors who would not wait for the campaign to begin next week, but wanted to get the matter of their Red Cross contribution off their minds at once.

As Mayor Canfield very cleverly put the matter, how can any man make a speech after that, for these figures are the most eloquent speech ever heard in any campaign in Kingston. They show that while the people are not all what the mayor terms "100 per cent Red Cross," some of them are. If we were all "100 per cent Red Cross," according to the mayor, all that would have to be done would be to announce the date, open the polling places on that date and the people would come in and deposit their contributions, just as they cast their votes on election day. While that happy state of affairs has not yet come to Kingston it is, as the mayor says, "Nearer than it ever was before, and at the end of this campaign it will be nearer yet."

If enthusiasm and a perfectly planned organization count for anything, Kingston will not only raise its allotment of the $75,000 to be raised in Ulster county, but the whole $75,000—and then some—leaving the amount raised in the towns outside the city to make up a surplus that will put Ulster county farther over the top in this campaign than it has ever gone before. "Not only over the top, but through No Man's Land, through Fritz's trenches and into his dugouts on the other side," as John A. Mahar, chairman of the city committee, expressed it.

About 250 workers gathered at the meeting, which was preceded by a dinner. Of course the first thing was the singing of America under the lead of Harry P. Dodge, who can extract a greater volume of musical sounds from a room full of men than anyone ever suspected they were capable of producing. Grace was said by the Rev. George M. Cranston, pastor of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church.

After the dinner, which was enlivened by the singing of "Keep the Home Fires Burning," "Pack Up Your Troubles," and "Where Do We Go From Here," John D. Schoonmaker made a brief opening address, predicting that in this as in every other campaign of the kind, Ulster county would go over the top. He announced that not only would there be a banner each evening for the team reporting the largest amount of contributions, but also a banner for the team reporting the largest number of contributors. Mr. Schoonmaker read the list of advance subscriptions, as follows:

AMERICAN TROOPS JOIN THE BRITISH

Warmly Greeted on Their Arrival in the Battle Zone in Northern France Where They Will Fight Alongside the British.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

With the American Army in France, May 17.—American troops have arrived in the battle area of northern France controlled by the British.

Information to this effect was allowed to pass by the American censor today for the first time.

It is not advisable to state the number of Americans that have been sent into the northern battle zone nor their location, however.

The spirit existing between the American and British officers and men is most cordial.

The "Tommy's" who have been long anxious to have Americans fight beside them gave the doughboys the warmest possible greeting upon their arrival.

This is the first time that any considerable number of our troops has mingled with the British and French.

When the helmeted groups meet in the same village it is hard to distinguish between them so similar are their make-up.

Our troops are now completing their training in this area.

It is probable that the Americans are being held close to the front so that they can be utilized as reserves when the Germans renew their assaults. The Americans evidently have completed most of their training but intensive drill is considered necessary for participation in such terrific fighting as is believed inevitable when the fighting is resumed.

The Flanders front is so extensive that it would be hard to attempt to estimate the position that the Americans will be put into when they finally reach the firing line. Already there are British, Portuguese, French and Belgian troops on the Flanders front not counting the newly arrived Americans.

EIGHT MORE SENT AWAY WITH A SMILE

Parade Feature Was the Singing by the Rotarians of Appropriate Songs—Large Crowd Out to Give the Boys a Cheerful Send-off.

Under sunny skies and with a demonstration as big as ever, eight more Ulster county boys left Kingston this morning to do their part in helping to win the world war. Seven men were sent from Division No. 1 and one from Division No. 2.

Division 1.

John Ambrose, 19 Cordis street, machinist helper, assigned to Hoboken.

Joseph Fallig, New York city, electrician, assigned to Camp Dix.

Charles Thomas Diamond, 153 Hunter street, ship caulker, assigned to Hoboken.

Martin M. Dunn, 62 Hunter street, ship caulker, assigned to Hoboken.

William L. Morris, 124 Cedar street, automobile mechanic, assigned to Hoboken.

John J. Curran, 44 Henry street, carpenter, assigned to Camp Sevier, Greenville, South Carolina.

John F. Eagan, 73 Ravine street, barman, assigned to Laurel, Maryland.

Division 2.

Charles H. Jamin, Esopus, teamster, assigned to Laurel, Maryland.

Given Final Instructions.

All of the boys reported bright and early this morning at the headquarters of the division boards where they were given final instructions and transportation by Dr. Samuel Stern. The men had received their comfort kits the day before.

A Cheery "Bunch."

They were a cheery crowd as they gathered around to receive final instructions and exchanged many a gay quip with each other, and as Diamond of Hunter street remarked when questioned what line of work he had been assigned for duty, "Caulker by trade and a corker by nature."

The only thing that seemed to take up their minds was the question of securing their noon day meal, and the men reminded those who had the meal tickets in charge to be sure not to lose them. The question of exit was an important one, judging from their physical appearance, for they were a husky bunch.

Parade Formed Early.

Kingston and Kingston's residents have become accustomed to sending the boys away not only with a smile but with a parade that was of such size as to convince the boys leaving for the colors that they were not forgotten by the folks they leave behind.

All of the divisions were in line long before the signal was sounded on the fire alarm bell.

Air Was Chilly.

The air was chilly, although the sun shone brightly, but Old Sol had not had sufficient time to warm up the atmosphere before the parade swung into line. With the stirring strains of the music of our national songs, however, the marchers soon felt the blood circulating and the chill was quickly dispelled.

Singing a Feature.

The Rotary Club was out in force and marched ahead of the big delegation from the high school, and a feature of this demonstration and parade was the singing of popular war songs by the Rotary Club members and the high school students. The favorites were "Over There" and "Keep the Home Fires Burning" and "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

This feature of the parade met with approval from those who lined the sidewalks to watch the boys go by.

R-R Carried Luggage.

The big truck of Rose, Gorman & Rose carried the luggage of the boys to the station. The luggage was looked after by Fire Commissioner Lahl, who has performed similar service for all of the boys who have gone away, who saw that it was safely placed aboard the train.

Train On Time.

Owing to the fact that this contingent was another small one they had no special car assigned them. The 9:05 pulled in on time and the boys had to wait but a very short time when reaching the station before they boarded the train and were borne away.

Police Arrangements Excellent.

Chief Wood and his efficient detail of men have had considerable experience in handling the crowds that are at the station to bid the boys goodbye and were absolutely no disorder and everything went smoothly and like clockwork.

Demonstration Big As Ever.

While the crowd at the station may not have been quite as large as previous ones yet there was a big turnout along the streets through which the parade passed.

There was but few tears and but few cheers, but the attitude of the spectators showed that they realized the big thing the boys leaving home were to encounter.

Parade a Big One.

The parade this morning was fully as large, and in some respects larger than previous ones. The delegation of the high school students was exceptionally large. There was also a large number of business men in line. In fact, all the divisions were filled out and the parade was an impressive one.

Alderman Mann Presented Fruit.

Alderman Ralph Mann, who has presented the preceding contingents with a basket of fruit, was on hand with a big basket of apples for the boys to munch while on the train. The boys were also presented with smokes.

Same Plan Carried Out.

The same plans that were carried out in previous demonstrations were in force this morning and as the parade neared the railroad station the lines swung to each side forming a guard of honor through which passed the committee of arrangements, the Colonial city Band, headed by James S. Barber, a veteran of the Spanish-American War, who has acted as drum major for all the delegations that have left Kingston so far, and then the boys.

The marchers then fell in behind and accompanied the boys to the station where Company M formed on each side of the big square through which the boys passed on the way to the train.

Hasty Goodbyes.

As the train drew into the station on time the boys were given but scant opportunity to shake hands with friends and relatives before they had to break away and enter the train.

Everyone at the station and along the line of march seemed to bear in mind that the boys enjoyed it better if they were greeted with smiles instead of tears and the big crowd bore that fact in mind.

Then Train Pulled Out.

As the boys boarded the train and secured seats in the last car the crowd stood with uncovered heads while the band played our national anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner."

It was an impressive sight and the passengers in the train crowded to the windows that they might not miss a single detail.

Kingston did itself proud. It was a fine contingent of husky young manhood that they bid God speed, and there is no question but they will make their presence felt when they reach their various assignments.

As the train drew out of the station our boys leaned from the car windows to catch a last glimpse of the old home town and wave a farewell to the folks they have left behind.

Parade Formation.

The first division was headed by Grand Marshal D. G. Atkins, Chief Wood and a detail of Kingston finest, the committee of arrangements, Bailey, Life and Drum Corps, Company M, Pratt Post, Spanish War Veterans, Old Guard of Ulster County, Tappen Camp, Ladies' Auxiliary of Tappen Camp, officers and men in active federal service, Boy and Girl Scouts, and members of the Red Cross.

The second division was made up of the city clergy, lawyers, doctors, dentists, city and county officials, employees and citizens and the business men of the city.

The third division was headed by the fathers of the drafted men, the Rotary Club, the high school, delegation the faculty and members of education board.

The fourth division was headed by the Colonial City Band, our boys and the members of the division boards.

Line of March Unchanged.

The line of march was unchanged and was the same as in previous parades and demonstrations.

A Fitting Farewell.

The demonstration and parade was a fitting farewell to our boys and but a slight token of the fact that they will not be forgotten by the folks at home while they are serving our colors.

Anarchy in Odessa.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Amsterdam, May 17.—A state of anarchy prevails in Odessa and bitter hand to hand street fighting is taking place there, according to reports received here today. Martial law has been proclaimed by the Austrians, it is said, and thousands of families are fleeing from Kiev despite Austrian opposition.

Big Guns Not Destroyed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Geneva, May 17.—Denial that the big guns which the Germans had captured at Paris, with have been destroyed was made today by the Constantine Gazette. The paper claims that the German long range guns were removed to the Krupp works for repairs.

Esopus Red Cross Committee.

Andrew M. Taylor, chairman of the Red Cross Campaign, District No. 2, town of Esopus, has appointed the following to assist in the work: Mrs. A. M. Taylor, Mrs. E. W. Hathaway, Miss L. Schleede, Mrs. Herman Ellsworth, Miss Minnie Houghtaling, Miss Allie Neice, Mrs. George Fairbrother, Mrs. Elvin Hutchings.

Red Cross Rallyes in Esopus.

A. D. Van Buren, Miss Georgia Claffin, Rev. Eugene Bookhout and Rev. C. H. Polhemus will be the speakers at Red Cross rally in Port Ewen and Cunnely this evening.

AMERICAN TROOPS JOIN THE BRITISH

Warmly Greeted on Their Arrival in the Battle Zone in Northern France Where They Will Fight Alongside the British.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

With the American Army in France, May 17.—American troops have arrived in the battle area of northern France controlled by the British.

Information to this effect was allowed to pass by the American censor today for the first time.

It is not advisable to state the number of Americans that have been sent into the northern battle zone nor their location, however.

The spirit existing between the American and British officers and men is most cordial.

The "Tommyes" who have been long anxious to have Americans fight beside them gave the doughboys the warmest possible greeting upon their arrival.

This is the first time that any considerable number of our troops has mingled with the British and French.

When the helmeted groups meet in the same village it is hard to distinguish between them so similar are their make-up.

Our troops are now completing their training in this area.

It is probable that the Americans are being held close to the front so that they can be utilized as reserves when the Germans renew their assaults. The Americans evidently have completed most of their training but intensive drill is considered necessary for participation in such terrific fighting as is believed inevitable when the fighting is resumed.

The Flanders front is so extensive that it would be hard to attempt to estimate the position that the Americans will be put into when they finally reach the firing line. Already there are British, Portuguese, French and Belgian troops on the Flanders front not counting the newly arrived Americans.

EIGHT MORE SENT AWAY WITH A SMILE

Parade Feature Was the Singing by the Rotarians of Appropriate Songs—Large Crowd Out to Give the Boys a Cheerful Send-off.

Under sunny skies and with a demonstration as big as ever, eight more Ulster county boys left Kingston this morning to do their part in helping to win the world war. Seven men were sent from Division No. 1 and one from Division No. 2.

Division 1.

John Ambrose, 19 Cordis street, machinist helper, assigned to Hoboken.

Joseph Fallig, New York city, electrician, assigned to Camp Dix.

Charles Thomas Diamond, 153 Hunter street, ship caulker, assigned to Hoboken.

Martin M. Dunn, 62 Hunter street, ship caulker, assigned to Hoboken.

William L. Morris, 124 Cedar street, automobile mechanic, assigned to Hoboken.

John J. Curran, 44 Henry street, carpenter, assigned to Camp Sevier, Greenville, South Carolina.

John F. Eagan, 73 Ravine street, bargeman, assigned to Laurel, Maryland.

From Division 2.

Charles H. Jamun, Esopus, teamster, assigned to Laurel, Maryland.

Given Final Instructions.

All of the boys reported bright and early this morning at the headquarters of the division boards where they were given final instructions and transportation by Dr. Samuel Stern. The men had received their comfort kits the day before.

A Cheery "Bunch."

They were a cheery crowd as they gathered around to receive final instructions and exchanged many a gay quip with each other, and as Diamond of Hunter street remarked when questioned what line of work he had been assigned for duty, "Nature by trade and a corker by nature."

The only thing that seemed to take up their minds was the thought of securing their noon day meal, and the others reminded those who had the meal tickets in charge to be sure not to lose them. The question of eating was an important one, judging from their physical appearance, for they were a husky bunch.

Parade Formed Early.

Kingston and Kingston's residents have become accustomed to sending the boys away not only with a smile but with a parade that was of such size as to convince the boys leaving for the colors that they were not forgotten by the folks they leave behind. All of the divisions were in line long before the signal was sounded on the fire alarm bell.

Air Was Chilly.

The air was chilly, although the sun showed brightly, but Old Sol had not had sufficient time to warm up the atmosphere before the parade swung into line. With the stirring strains of the music of our national songs, however, the marchers soon felt the blood circulating, and the chill was quickly dispelled.

Singing a Feature.

The Rotary Club was out in force and marched ahead of the big delegation from the high school, and a feature of this demonstration and parade was the singing of popular war songs by the Rotary Club members and the high school students. The favorites were "Over There" and "Keep the Home Fires Burning" and "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

This feature of the parade met with approval from those who lined the sidewalks to watch the boys go by.

R-G-R Carried Luggage.

The big truck of Rose, Gorman & Co. carried the luggage of the boys in the station. The luggage was looked after by Fire Commissioner Lahl, who has performed similar service for all of the boys who have gone away, who saw that it was safely placed aboard the train.

Train On Time.

Owing to the fact that this contingent was another small one they had no special car assigned them. The 3:05 pulled in on time and the boys had to wait but a very short time when reaching the station before they boarded the train and were borne away.

Police Arrangements Excellent.

Chief Wood and his efficient detail of men have had considerable experience in handling the crowds that are at the station to bid the boys good-bye and were absolutely no disorder and everything went smoothly and like clockwork.

Parade a Big One.

The parade this morning was fully as large, and in some respects larger than previous ones. The delegation of the high school students was exceptionally large. There was also a large number of business men in line. In fact, all the divisions were filled.

Big Guns Not Destroyed.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Geneva, May 17.—Denial that the big guns which the Germans had destroyed was made today by the Constant Gazette. The paper claims that the German long range guns were removed to the Krupp works for repairs.

THE EMBLEM OF HUMAN MERCY

By SAMUEL GOMPERS

The Red Cross is an emblem typifying human mercy and sympathy. Its mission to relieve physical pain and minister to mind and body has given it a place deep in the hearts of all our people. For those whose dear ones are in places of great danger it is a comfort to know that the American Red Cross is performing more effective service on a larger scale than ever before.

In addition to serving our enlisted forces, it is assisting in the work of civil relief among our allies whose soil is being devastated by the fighting.

Thus the Red Cross is helping to interpret the constructive spirit of our Republic which holds sacred human life and the ideals it seeks.

As time goes on the scope of the work of the Red Cross in Europe will increase in order that the organization may meet the demands that will be made upon it. It must receive the full and hearty support of the American people. It is only through such an agency that we can be assured relief and necessary ministrations to our young men forming our military force.

It is my sincere desire that adequate funds will be secured for the work of the Red Cross.

Samuel Gompers

THE RED CROSS SPIRIT SPEAKS

By JOHN H. FINLEY.

I kneel behind the soldiers' trench
I walk with shambles' smear and stench
The dead I mourn.
I bear the stretcher and I bend
O'er Sammy, Pierre and Jack and mend
What shells have torn.

I go wherever men may dare, I go wherever woman's care
And love can live.
Wherever strength and skill can bring
Surcease to human suffering
Or solace give.

I am your pennies and your pounds;
I am your bodies on their rounds
Of pain afar;
I am you, doing what you would
If you were only where you could—
Your avatar.

The cross which on my arm I wear,
The flag which o'er my breast I bear,
Is but the sign
Of what you'd sacrifice for him
Who suffers on the hellish rim
Of war's red line.

Newest Devices of Surgery For Our Wounded Soldiers

Nitrous Oxide and Fluoroscope at Hand to Give
American Wounded All Chance in World.

The best is none too good for the wounded American soldier. That is the Red Cross idea. The minute science finds an improvement in surgery it is adopted in the Red Cross army hospitals, which are models of up-to-the-minute completeness.

This fact is vividly emphasized in a recent news dispatch from Reginald Wright Kauffman, author of "The House of Bondage." Kauffman had been allowed to accompany a badly wounded friend into the operating room:

"Come on," said the interne; "your friend's in there. He's about played out; can't stand chloroform or ether. Got to give him nitrous oxide."

"I knew that for a patient whose resistance has been diminished the difference between the old anaesthetics and this new one is frequently the difference between life and death, but I also knew that nitrous oxide is not on our army list and that no supplies existed a year ago in France."

"The Red Cross has put up a plant here," explained the interne. He opened a door. Bill lay on the operating table, and the surgeons were at work. "They're after that abdominal wound," the interne told me. "They're working with the fluoroscope."

"Above Bill's upturned feet and about a yard away stood an X-ray apparatus. Its flesh piercing light fell on a disk of metal that an orderly held over Bill's bare waist. The violet rays passed through the disk and into the patient's abdominal cavity. The surgeon's eyes followed them through the metal and into the flesh. His knife plying fingers worked under the disk and deep in the wounded man's belly. He cut with that solid plate for a window."

"He can see what he's after before he gets started," my guide exclaimed, "and if he overlooks any shell fragments there is a magnetic contrivance that sounds a buzzer when he gets near them."

"It would be all right, they told me. Thanks to the fluoroscope and the nitrous oxide, a stay here under treatment and then a rest at one of the Red Cross convalescent camps by the seaside would fit Bill for a return to the trenches."

Out of the Trenches for a Breathing Space

Contributed by James Montgomery Flagg.

"They Are Our Boys; Get Ready, Everyone, for a Rush!"

The long train of freight cars whined and grumbled as it strove to stop. In the doorway of a great low building a white capped and gowned woman released a sunny smile and, turning to her voice carried into the building, called out, "They are ours; get ready for a rush."

Just how she could tell they were "ours" would be hard to explain, for at the moment she spoke hundreds of the dirtiest, grizzliest men a woman ever saw came fairly tumbling out of the freight cars. A moment more she was welcoming this muddy rabble with a laugh and cheering words.

Inside the building there were more women, all spick and span in white, with faces beaming, handing out good "home cooked" food over spotless tiled counters. Some of the boys fairly ran for the food; others went into the long batteries of baths, throwing out their vermin ridden clothes to be sterilized while they scrubbed their bodies back to a healthy glow.

What luxury it all was—food, tables, chairs, things to read, games to play, paper for writing, a barber shop, a movie theater and good, clean beds! No one ever thought that these happy, smiling women might be tired, nor were they tired then, even though all day long they had been serving train after train of French and English troops, literally thousands of them. Yet what did that matter? For these boys that came at the end of a long day—these boys are "ours."

If your boy is in France you may be sure he has a song of praise for the fine women at work in the railway canteens of our own Red Cross, for at every important railway junction there is one of our Red Cross canteens and at each canteen there are 18 women—real, true American women.

SPEAKING OF MONEY

Just How the Goodfields—
The Stingiest Couple in Town—
Helped the Red Cross

By BOOTH TARKINGTON
Of the Vigilantes.

"Speaking of money," said my seafaring friend of the Maine coast, "we used to have an old man here named Goodfield. When he was young he used to sing in the church choir—that didn't cost nothin'—and married one of the Emberses, but didn't have only one child, and it died, and time he got to be about sixty-eight years old he'd saved up and was hikin' out his money at about as high a p'cent as anybody. Made it all just tradin' and bein' careful what he spent. 'Careful' he wouldn't buy himself a pair of britches but once in eight years, and when his old sister that lived with 'em says one day she was bound to see what the inside the pitcher showed theater looked like just once before she died, why, old Goodfield and his wife says that was the last straw, and they fixed up and had her hauled off to live on the county. His wife was just the same as him, too."

"Well, along about the middle of the hard winter, three years ago, Goodfield took sick, and his wife told the neighbors they both thought it was a pretty good thing, comin' on him in the cold weather that way, because fuel was so high and a person in bed don't need to use any. They wouldn't hear of callin' in the doctor, and for two or three weeks the neighbors and old friends, most of 'em, was sure he was goin' to die, but then he begun to look so well there didn't hardly seem to be much hope."

Old Goodfield walks in. "He got to goin' out and shamblin' around again, and for awhile there wasn't nobody noticed anything much different. I reckon I was the first, and it come about mighty queer. It was like this: I was workin' in my shack one night pretty late, tryin' to spell out what was the matter with a carburetor I'd brought up from my boat, when there come a tap on the door, and old Goodfield walks in. I was kind of surprised to see him, but I didn't say nothin' 'cept 'Good evenin', and all of a sudden he says, 'Do you know how much money I'm worth?'"

"He said it just like that—nothin' before it—and I said, 'For the Lord's sake, Mr. Goodfield, what's the matter?' He looked kind of funny to me. 'I'm worth a hundred and twenty-four thousand three hundred and sixty-three dollars and fifty-one cents,' he says."

"Well, by Orry!" I says. "Well, sir, he begun to pant like he'd been runnin' up a hill; he got to heavin' like a winded horse; then he begun to cry and sob like a woman that's all excited when some one's just died. 'Well, by Orry!' I says. 'You better set down and quiet yourself,' I says. 'What's the matter?'"

"I got to die," he says. "I been sick," he says. "I been sick and I got to die!"

"Well, I says, 'we all got to die.' 'He kep' straight on cryin' and pantin' and sobbin'."

"'Yes,' he says, 'but I never knowed I had to! I never knowed it before I was sick. I kind of thought I wouldn't be half to, when it come right down to it.'"

"'We're all fixed that way,' I says. 'We all got to have some sickness we won't get over.' 'Well, sir, he let out a yell that just about rose my hair. 'The rest of you ain't got a hundred and twenty-four thousand three hundred and sixty-three dollars and fifty-one cents!' he hollers. 'And I got to die!' he says; and he kep' on kind of shoutin' it. 'I got to die! I got to die! I got to die!'"

And then he pitches over before I could catch him and fell down on a couple of busted lobster traps.

boat in for a debt, and you couldn't told there was anythin' the matter with him. What I mean, you couldn't told nothin' on him in daytime, but after dark he'd go shamblin' all around the village, and then when it got late, if he see a light somewhere, he'd go in there and have a spell just the same he had with me. Scared people with them spells, he did."

The Last of Goodfield's Money. "Long about September his wife up and surprised everybody, because she went to all the expense of havin' the old man declared insane and hauled off to the asylum. He cut his throat with a piece of broken bottle up there, and the funniest thing happened—they found the old woman dead the same afternoon in their house here. The court gave the estate to a trust company, and I guess that was the end of old Goodfield's hundred and twenty-four thousand three hundred and sixty-three dollars and fifty-one cents."

"Well, sir, you know all that about old Mr. and Mrs. Goodfield made a kind of a sensation, as you might call it, and there was quite a good deal of thinkin' and talkin' about it here in the village. There was some that claimed they aggered out how it all was meant to mean somethin'."

"Anyway, when the call come from Halifax last December we sent off mighty near half a carload of first-rate clothin' right in a few hours, and there was two hundred and seventy odd dollars subscribed just in the village, and you know there wasn't hardly any of us real sure we could see the winter through ourselves."

"Yes, I'll put my name down for the Red Cross, and I'll shell out. I guess you won't have much trouble gittin' subscriptions from the rest, either. We got a good many bags from here over there now, and we wouldn't like to think of 'em shot and layin' out in the fields twirlin' around and nobody to tend 'em because us at home hadn't found out yet that it's a mistake to think we're still goin' to have our navy's right side with us when we're dead!"

Marcel Gets His Barn Mended

Red Cross Helps This 15 Year Old French Boy—and His Family.

Marcel is a man. He is just fifteen years old, but yet he is a man. I say he is a man because in the last four years' time has burned into his child heart marks that should wait for sterner maturity. He is a man because he has the responsibility of a woman. He has no father. The Germans saw to that. Marcel has had to stand by and see his small brothers and baby sister ask in vain for food while he fought off the pressing call from his growing boy's stomach. He has had to see tears from his mother's eyes drop on the plowed ground as she watched the soil his father would have tilled had he not gone away out of the peacefulness of the Marne valley into the front hall of the Aisne and on into the hereafter.

The boy, who was now a man, worked hard, yes, too hard. With his hairless hands and his boy's strength he fought almost alone the unequal fight against want with what little help his frail mother could give.

Mother Can Keep Children. One of the 70 or 80 local societies in France, handicapped by lack of funds because deluged by calls for help, tried to relieve the family by taking away the children. But to the torture twisted brain of the woman this seemed like losing all she had.

And then when everything seemed lost and despair came they heard the news. "No, it could not be true. They would help them with food and clothing? They would till the soil? Mend the barns and stay near by to see that things went well?" Yes, and the children could stay, said the Red Cross, as they had said to hundreds of others.

That was two years ago. Today this family is self supporting and has some to spare for the more needy ones, who still are being helped. Little Jean is taller. He looks well fed—and he is well fed. The baby is so roly poly that the dimples have come again. They are in good spirits—on their feet once more.

And Marcel. He has finished the course that the Red Cross gave him in an agricultural school. It is he who has been running the farm so well. He did it all. At least they let him think so, for heaven knows he has seen the bottom of the bitter cup. And I know that the Red Cross will want me to say he did it, for that is the way they work—quietly, earnestly, efficiently, without stint, without waste, without boast.

THE LITTLE OLD LADY OF PANSY SQUARE

Timidly she entered the Red Cross Bureau and stood just within the doorway.

Her poor, dimmed old eyes spoke so eloquently: "I'm friendly, ladies, but a little afraid."

Several of us rose, but Mrs. Crawford reached her first and asked her to come in and sit down.

"Oh, thank you so much," quavered the old lady as she sat down. "You see, my boy—my grandson—has gone and"—with Spartan fortitude she restrained the tears that glistened in her eyes—"gone with his regiment. Now I'm all alone in my little cottage in Pansy Square. And, oh, ladies, do any of you know the dreary loneliness when there is no one who comes home at night?"

We almost hugged the dear old lady, so forlorn, yet so brave. We drew up our chairs closer, and she told us her story.

The little old lady owned a vine embowered cottage in Pansy Square. There she kept house for her grandson, who worked in a downtown office. When America took up cudgels for democracy the lad, in patriotic fervor, was among the first to enlist.

"Ah, how I loved him and needed him!" whispered the old lady brokenly. "But my dear country needed him more. So I told him to go. 'But what will you do, granny?' he asked. I told him I had enough, and so he went. Brave, brave heart! My husband was a soldier, and I have his pension. But it is small. After paying the taxes on my cottage there was little left, and now it is gone. I'm old, but I'm willing. All I ask is a chance to earn my bread till—I'll be returns."

Through the Home Service workers of her community the little old lady of Pansy Square has been provided with simple tasks, such as making preserves and delicious cakes and jellies, a labor of love for her and an unfailing source of revenue.

Some day, please God, her soldier boy will come back to the little old lady of Pansy Square, and he will find her as he left her—happy, comfortable and self reliant.

THE EMBLEM OF HUMAN MERCY

By SAMUEL GOMPERS

The Red Cross is an emblem typifying human mercy and sympathy. Its mission to relieve physical pain and minister to mind and body has given it a place deep in the hearts of all our people. For those whose dear ones are in places of great danger it is a comfort to know that the American Red Cross is performing more effective service on a larger scale than ever before.

In addition to serving our enlisted forces, it is assisting in the work of civil relief among our allies whose soil is being devastated by the fighting.

Thus the Red Cross is helping to interpret the constructive spirit of our Republic which holds sacred human life and the ideals it seeks.

As time goes on the scope of the work of the Red Cross in Europe will increase in order that the organization may meet the demands that will be made upon it. It must receive the full and hearty support of the American people. It is only through such an agency that we can be assured relief and necessary ministrations to our young men forming our military force.

It is my sincere desire that adequate funds will be secured for the work of the Red Cross.

Samuel Gompers

THE RED CROSS SPIRIT SPEAKS

By JOHN H. FINLEY.

I kneel behind the soldiers' trench
I walk with shambles' smear and stench
The dead I mourn.
I hear the stretcher and I bend
O'er Sammy, Pierre and Jack and mend
What shells have torn.

I go wherever men may dare, I go wherever woman's care
And love can live
Wherever strength and skill can bring Success to human suffering
Or solace give.

I am your pennies and your pounds;
I am your bodies on their rounds
Of pain afar,
I am you, doing what you would
If you were only where you could—
Your avatar.

The cross which on my arm I wear,
The flag which o'er my breast I bear,
Is but the sign
Of what you'd sacrifice for him
Who suffers on the hellish rim
Of war's red line.

Newest Devices of Surgery For Our Wounded Soldiers

Nitrous Oxide and Fluoroscope at Hand to Give
American Wounded All Chance in World.

The best is none too good for the wounded American soldier. That is the Red Cross idea. The minute relief finds an improvement in surgery it is adopted in the Red Cross army hospitals which are models of up-to-the-minute completeness.

This fact is vividly emphasized in a recent news dispatch from Reinald Wright Kauffman author of "The House of Bondage." Kauffman had been allowed to accompany a badly wounded friend into the operating room.

Come on, said the interne, "your friends in there. He's about played out. Can't stand chloroform or ether. Got to give him nitrous oxide."

"I knew that for a patient whose resistance has been diminished the difference between the old anaesthetic and this new one is frequently the difference between life and death, but I also knew that nitrous oxide is not on our army list and that no supplies existed a year ago in France."

"The Red Cross has put up a plant here," explained the interne. He opened a door. Bill lay on the operating

table, and the surgeons were at work. "They're after that abdominal wound," the interne told me. "They're working with the fluoroscope."

"Above Bill's upturned feet and about a yard away stood an X-ray apparatus. Its flash piercing light fell on a disk of metal that an orderly held over Bill's bared waist. The violet rays passed through the disk and into the patient's abdominal cavity. The surgeon's eyes followed them through the metal and into the flesh. His knife plying fingers worked under the disk and deep in the wounded man's belly. He cut with that solid plate for a window."

"He can see what he's after before he gets started," my guide exclaimed, "and if he overlooks any shell fragments there is a magnetic contrivance that sounds a buzzer when he gets near them."

"It would be all right, they told me. Thanks to the fluoroscope and the nitrous oxide, a stay here under treatment and then a rest at one of the Red Cross convalescents' camps by the seaside would fit Bill for a return to the trenches."

Out of the Trenches for a Breathing Space

Contributed by James Montgomery Flagg.

"They Are Our Boys; Get Ready, Everyone, for a Rush!"

The long train of freight cars whined and grumbled as it strove to stop. In the doorway of a great low building a white capped and gowned woman released a sunny smile and, turning so her voice carried into the building, called out, "They are ours; get ready for a rush."

Just how she could tell they were "ours" would be hard to explain, for at the moment she spoke hundreds of the dirtiest, grizzliest men a woman ever saw came fairly tumbling out of the freight cars. A moment more she was welcoming this muddy rabble with a laugh and cheering words.

Inside the building there were more women, all spick and span in white, with faces beaming, handing out good "home cooked" food over spotless tiled counters. Some of the boys fairly ran for the food, others went into the long batteries of baths throwing out their vermin ridden clothes to be sterilized while they scrubbed their bodies back to a healthy glow.

What luxury it all was—food, tables, chairs, things to read, games to play, paper for writing, a barber shop, a movie theater and good, clean beds! No one ever thought that these happy, smiling women might be tired, nor were they tired then, even though all day long they had been serving train after train of French and English troops, literally thousands of them. Yet what did that matter? For these boys that came at the end of a long day—these boys are "ours."

If your boy is in France you may be sure he has a song of praise for the fine women at work in the railway canteens of our own Red Cross, for at every important railway junction there is one of our Red Cross canteens and at each canteen there are 18 women—real, true American women.

SPEAKING OF MONEY

Just How the Goodfields— The Stingiest Couple in Town— Helped the Red Cross

By BOOTH TARKINGTON

Of the Vigilantes

"Speaking of money," said my seafaring friend of the Maine coast, "we used to have an old man here named Goodfield. When he was young he used to sing in the church choir—that didn't cost nothing—and married one of the Emberses, but didn't have only one child and it died and time he got to be about sixty-eight years old he'd saved up and was hikin' out his money at about as high a price as anybody. Made it all just tradin' and bein' careful what he spent. 'Careful!' He wouldn't buy himself a pair of britches but once in eight years, and when his old sister that lived with 'em says one day she was bound to see what the inside the pitcher show theater looked like just once before she died, why, old Goodfield and his wife says that was the last straw, and they fixed up and had her hauled off to live on the county. His wife was just the same as him, too."

"Well, along about the middle of the hard winter, three years ago, Goodfield took sick, and his wife told the neighbors they both thought it was a pretty good thing, comin' on him in the cold weather that way, because fuel was so high and a person in bed don't need to use any. They wouldn't hear of callin' in the doctor, and for two or three weeks the neighbors and old friends, most of 'em, was sure he was goin' to die, but then he begun to look so well there didn't hardly seem to be much hope."

Old Goodfield walks in. "He got to givin' out and shamblin' around again, and for awhile there wasn't nobody noticed anything much different. I reckon I was the first, and it come about mighty queer. It was like this: I was workin' in my shack one night pretty late, tryin' to spell out what was the matter with a carburetor I'd brought up from my boat, when there come a tap on the door, and old Goodfield walks in. I was kind o' surprised to see him, but I didn't say nothin' 'cept 'Good evenin'.' And all of a sudden he says, 'Do you know how much money I've won?'"

"He said it just like that—nothin' before it—and I said, 'For the Lord's sake, Mr. Goodfield, what's the matter?' He looked kind of funny to me. 'I'm worth a hundred and twenty-four thousand three hundred and sixty-three dollars and fifty-one cents,' he says."

"Well, by Orry!" I says. "Well, sir, he begun to pant like he'd been runnin' up a hill; he got to heavin' like a winded horse, then he begun to cry and sob like a woman that's all excited when some one's just died. 'Well, by Orry!' I says. 'You better set down and quiet yourself,' I says. 'What's the matter?'"

"I got to die," he says. "I been sick," he says. "I been sick and I got to die."

"Well, I says, 'we all got to die.' 'He kep straight on cryin' and pantin and sobbin."

"'Yes,' he says, 'but I never knowed I had to! I never knowed it before I was sick. I kind o' thought I wouldn't be here, but when it come right down to it."

"We're all fixed that way, I says. 'We all got to have some sickness we won't get over.'"

"Well, sir, he let out a yell that just about rose my hair. 'The rest of you ain't got a hundred and twenty-four thousand three hundred and sixty-three dollars and fifty-one cents' he hollers. 'And I got to die!' he says; and he kep on kind of shoutin' it. 'I got to die! I got to die! I got to die! And then he pitches over before I could catch him and fell down on a couple o' busted lobster traps."

"Ole Cap Whitecomb, he woke up in his shack next door and put on some clothes and come in, lookin' scared to death. Him and me picked Goodfield up off the traps and got him home, half carryin' him, and him kind of whimperin' and slobberin' right on to when we left him doubled up on a rickety chair at his own house."

"Next day he was around, just about the same as ever, and never said nothin' about nothin', and the week after that he took Fred Owens'

boat in for a debt, and you couldn't told there was anythin' the matter with him. What I mean, you couldn't told nothin' on him in daytime, but after dark he'd go shamblin' all around the village, and then when it got late, if he see a light somewhere, he'd go in there and have a spell just the same he had with me. Scared people with them spells, he did."

"The Last of Goodfield's Money" and surprised everybody, because she went to all the expense of havin' the old man declared insane and hauled off to the asylum. He cut his throat with a piece of broken bottle up there, and the funnest thing happened—they found the old woman dead the same afternoon in their house here. 'The court gave the estate to a trust company, and I guess that was the end of old Goodfield's hundred and twenty-four thousand three hundred and sixty-three dollars and fifty-one cents."

"Well, sir, you know all that about old Mr. and Mrs. Goodfield made a kind of a sensation, as you might call it, and there was quite a good deal of talkin' and talkin' about it here in the village. There was some that claimed they figured out how it all was meant to mean somethin'."

"Anyway, when the call come from Halifax last December we sent off mighty near half a carload of first-rate clothin' right in a few hours, and there was two hundred and seventy odd dollars subscribed just in the village, and you know there wasn't hardly any of us real sure we could see the winter through ourselves."

"Yes, I'll put my name down for the Red Cross, and I'll shell out. I guess you won't have much trouble gittin' subscriptions from the rest, either. We got a good many boys from here over there now, and we wouldn't like to think of 'em shot and layin' out in the fields twixin' around and nobody to tend 'em because us at home hadn't found out yet that it's a mistake to think we're still goin' to have our soldier's right nice laid with us when we're dead!"

Marcel Gets His Barn Mended

Red Cross Helps This 15 Year Old French Boy—and His Family.

Marcel is a man. He is just fifteen years old, but yet he is a man. I say he is a man because in the last four years' time has burned into his child heart marks that should wait for sterner maturity. He is a man because he has the responsibility of a woman. He has no father. The Germans saw to that. Marcel has had to stand by and see his small brothers and baby sister ask in vain for food while he fought off the pressing call from his growing boy's stomach. He has had to see tears from his mother's eyes drop on the plowed ground as she worked the soil his father would have tilled had he not gone away out of the peacefulness of the Marne valley into the iron hall of the Aisne and on into the hereafter.

The boy, who was now a man, worked hard, yes, too hard. With his hairless hands and his boy's strength he fought almost alone the unequal fight against want with what little help his frail mother could give.

Mother Can Keep Children.

One of the 70 or 80 local societies in France, handicapped by lack of funds because delayed by calls for help, tried to relieve the family by taking away the children. But to the torture twisted brain of the woman this seemed like losing all she had.

And then when everything seemed lost and despair came they heard the news: "No, it could not be true. They would help them with food and clothing? They would till the soil? Mend the barns and stay near by to see that things went well?" Yes, and the children could stay, said the Red Cross, as they had said to hundreds of others.

That was two years ago. Today this family is self supporting and has some to spare for the more needy ones, who still are being helped. Little Jean is taller. He looks well fed—and he is well fed. The baby is so roly poly that the dimples have come again. They are in good spirits—on their feet once more.

And Marcel. He has finished the course that the Red Cross gave him in an agricultural school. It is he who has been running the farm so well. He did it all. At least they let him think so, for heaven knows he has seen the bottom of the bitter cup. And I know that the Red Cross will want me to say he did it, for that is the way they work—quietly, earnestly, efficiently, without stint, without waste, without boast.

THE LITTLE OLD LADY OF PANSY SQUARE

Timidly she entered the Red Cross Bureau and stood just within the doorway.

Her poor, dimmed old eyes spoke so eloquently. "I'm friendly, ladies, but a little afraid."

Several of us rose, but Mrs. Crawford reached her first and asked her to come in and sit down.

"Oh, thank you so much," quavered the old lady as she sat down. "You see, my boy—my grandson—has gone and"—with Spartan fortitude she restrained the tears that glistened in her eyes—"gone with his regiment. Now I'm all alone in my little cottage in Pansy Square. And, oh, ladies, do any of you know the dreary loneliness when there is no one who comes home at night?"

We almost hugged the dear old lady, so forlorn, yet so brave. We drew up our chairs closer, and she told us her story.

The little old lady owned a vine embowered cottage in Pansy Square. There she kept house for her grandson, who worked in a downtown office. When America took up cudgels for democracy the lad, in patriotic fervor, was among the first to enlist.

"Ah, how I loved him and needed him!" whispered the old lady brokenly. "But my dear country needed him more. So I told him to go. 'But what will you do, granny?' he asked. I told him I had enough, and so he went. Brave brave heart! My husband was a soldier, and I have his pension. But it is small. After paying the taxes on my cottage there was little left, and now it is gone. I'm old, but I'm willing. All I ask is a chance to earn my bread till—till he returns."

Through the Home Service workers of her community the little old lady of Pansy Square has been provided with simple tasks, such as making preserves and delicious cakes and jellies, a labor of love for her and an unflinching source of revenue.

Some day, please God, her soldier boy will come back to the little old lady of Pansy Square, and he will find her as he left her—happy, comfortable and self reliant.

COMFORT KITS ARE PRESENTED

The conscripts who entrained today in response to the call for mechanics for Uncle Sam's service, reported Thursday afternoon at five o'clock at the office of local board for Division 1 or Ulster county, in the surrogate's office, to receive their instructions, and their comfort kits and Red Cross supplies.

The men were in the best of spirits and seemed glad to have the opportunity of giving their services for our country. They listened attentively to their military instructions.

Samuel Stern, secretary of local board for Division 1, made a brief address to the boys. He complimented them upon the spirit they were showing and said that Ulster was proud of her sons. This county has the reputation of sending clean-cut men, and the officials at the various training camps have spoken in complimentary terms of the way in which the boys from old Ulster have taken up their military duties. All of the men reported when the roll was called. Martin Michael Dunn of 62 Hunter street, was named as captain of the four men who were assigned to Hoboken.

Mrs. Clara P. Van Wagoner and Arpha Moore assisted in giving out the Red Cross supplies and the comfort kits.

Looking Through Axle.

The periscope, so efficient in trench and submarine warfare, now has a pacific application, according to the Popular Science Monthly. It promises to avert many accidents resulting from defective locomotive axles. The axle is bored longitudinally, the size of the bore being ample to permit insertion of the periscope, which is about 40 inches long and 1 1/4 inches in diameter. At one end is a magnifying mirror upon which a light is thrown from the handle. Looking through the periscope, inspectors obtain a clear view of every part of the axle and are enabled to detect the flaws in the steel.

Plea for Present-Day Authors.

In his “Books and Persons,” Arnold Bennett says: “In the innermost Strand, where there are 40 tobacconists, 39 restaurants, half a dozen theaters, 17 necktie shops, there are only two establishments for the sale of new books. We travel for days and never see a single bookshop. Of course there are Franklins and self-improving young persons who buy cheap editions of the classics, which the world will not willingly let die, but I am anxious to meet the man who will not willingly let die the author who is not yet dead.”

A Real Argument.

She is a little five-year-old girl in Ewing street. Of course she had violated a rule of the home and was about to be punished. “Now, papa, what are you going to whip me for?” she asked. “You see, I have already done what you told me not to do and I am sure I will never do it again, so it won't do any good to whip me.” And now papa is wondering what will become of the child if her philosophy grows with her years.—Indianapolis News.

Where Ancients Excelled.

Although tunneling is among the most ancient of enterprises, more progress has been made in the last century than in the twenty centuries which preceded it. It is now known that back in the semi-mythical days of the Theban kings the long tunnel into the mountain rock, extending at a distance of 400 feet or so, into some lofty chamber, was a common work. The rock temples of Nubia and India, too, show that in certain matters at any rate moderns may still learn from the ancients.

LAWYERS WARNED OF NEAR-TREASON

Disloyal and Unprofessional to Obstruct Work of Draft Boards by Pressing Claims for Exemption and Deferred Classification.

New York city lawyers are warned that it is "disloyal and unprofessional" to persist in efforts to obtain deferred classification for draft registrants whose cases have already been passed on by proper draft officials in a statement by Henry W. Taft, chairman of the war committee of the local bar, yesterday.

"Martin Conboy, director of the draft here," reads Mr. Taft's statement, "has informed the war committee of the bar that in a great number of cases where the claims of registrants have already been carefully considered and determined affidavits are being prepared and filed by lawyers with the director of the draft and the local exemption boards throughout the city are being urged as the basis for reopening the cases so as to obtain a deferred classification."

"These affidavits," he says, "are 'imposing in their looks,' but of no value to the registrants." The persistence with which the claims are being pushed, the director of the draft believes, is due to the effort of the lawyers to obtain fees from registrants who are either too ignorant to protect themselves or are unduly solicitous to escape serving their country. Mr. Conboy informs this committee that the whole matter is a "source of vast annoyance to the officials in charge of the selective service and is seriously interfering with the proper enforcement of the law."

"Whether it is unprofessional for members of the bar to accept pecuniary retainers from registrants or not, it is certainly clear that patriotism and professional duty should deter lawyers from representing registrants, particularly those whose cases have once been passed on, unless, upon a conscientious examination of the fact, they satisfy themselves that injustice has been done."

"Except in such cases, persistent and partisan efforts to obtain a deferred classification are disloyal and unprofessional. Registrants can procure proper assistance, without paying compensation, from members of the Legal Advisory Board, and lawyers consulted by registrants should inform them of that fact."

"The Provost Marshal General has stated that the regulations give to the legal profession a definite place in the organized ranks of the nation, offering them the active duty of assisting in the raising of our armies, and that the performance of such duty would not 'make any demand on the time of any lawyer to which any patriotic citizen would hesitate to respond.'"

"He added that 'it should become the pride of every lawyer that no registrant within his district is without competent legal advice and assistance in preparing all papers that such registrant is required to submit in the process of selecting citizens of this nation for duty in the present emergency.'"

"By section 46 of the regulations lawyers are urged 'freely and without compensation to give their best services to the nation.' The activities of the lawyers to which the director of the draft calls attention are in direct antagonism to the spirit in which the government has thus invoked the bar of the country to aid in the making of an army."

"Such activities should not only be discouraged, but also denounced."

Address by Mrs. Baker.

On Wednesday afternoon, a group of faithful women worked steadily at the hospital garments at Red Cross headquarters, although they all wanted very much to go to the high school and hear Mrs. Baker, the head of their special department, address the women workers. This fact came to the knowledge of Mrs. Baker, and after leaving the high school she went directly to the Red Cross headquarters, and especially addressed the women there. She complimented them, not only upon their work but upon their loyalty to duty, and every woman who heard her there will hereafter be doubly a Red Cross worker. Mrs. Baker inspected the headquarters before leaving and expressed her approval and cordial appreciation of the excellent manner in which the work of every sort at headquarters is carried on.

Food Demonstration Meeting.

The women of Kingston are reminded of the canning demonstration and meeting to be held at the high school auditorium on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. At that meeting there will be in addition to the canning demonstration an exhibit of home made war breads of various sorts. Furthermore, plans will be formulated and completed for the operation of a community kitchen in this city this spring and summer. No housekeeper should miss attending this meeting, for food saving is a most important war winning work.

Red Cross Meetings Tonight.

Chairman Fowler, of the speakers' committee of the Red Cross war fund campaign, announces that this evening Senator Walton and Privates Southern of Canada will address a big Red Cross meeting at Sanger's.

Another enthusiastic meeting will be addressed at Port Ewen by A. D. Van Buren, Miss George Claffin and Sergeant Brown of Canada, who will also speak to the people of South Rondout.

Annual Federation Meeting.

Tomorrow afternoon the women of the Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs will hold an open meeting in addition to their election of officers at 2:30 o'clock in the chapel of the First Dutch Church. Following the business session, the Monday Club will be the entertaining club, and they will present as the speaker of the afternoon Dr. Baragwanath, who will address the gathering on the timely topic, "Women and the War."

PREPARATIONS FOR RED CROSS CAMPAIGN

The preparations for the coming Red Cross campaign as far as this county is concerned, are going forward most enthusiastically. The many women, ward workers of the Woman's Home Defense Committee of the county, who are acting as advance agents, have practically canvassed the city, telling the story of the work and the needs of the Red Cross to every family, and leaving little leaflets to be digested by the people at their leisure during the few days before the campaign. In many cities, especially in New Jersey and Connecticut the people are assuming a larger quota than that fixed by the central committee of the campaign. It looks now as though Ulster county, without any such action, would go well over the top.

Chairman John D. Schoonmaker and Secretary Ralph Cohen have been making a flying trip through southern Ulster, visiting various committees and teams and rendering such assistance as they could in the preparation for the big drive next week.

WHY MILK SHOW SHOULD BE HELD

Suspicion of Producer, Distributor and Consumer for Each Other Threatening Industry Vital to Health of Nation.

A national milk and dairy farm exposition, the biggest thing of its kind ever attempted, will be held in Grand Central Palace, New York city, the week of May 20. The exposition will cost $100,000.

Why spend all this money on a milk show when the demands for Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., and all sorts of war activities are crowding in from all sides?

Why? Because the milk industry has a direct relation to the successful waging of the war and the keeping of our nation fit. In fact, if the dairy men kill off their cows because of the demand for their products has fallen off—as it has at the present time—a serious milk shortage is threatened next year. And a milk shortage means danger to the health of the nation, especially of the children.

The increasing cost of milk caused by the increasing cost of keeping and feeding the cows and the increasing cost distributing the milk, together with a growing suspicion of producer, distributor and consumer for each other, has greatly reduced the consumption of milk. In New York city for example figures show that it has fallen off 25 per cent. This means that great stores of condensed milk and powdered milk and butter and cheese have been piling up in the warehouses and cold storages. Again, with summer coming on, when the cows are put out to pasture and the flow of milk increases, it will be impossible to use up the milk unless every one is made to see that not only is it a duty he owes himself but his country to use all the milk he can.

Milk Not Like Crops.

The production of milk is not like the production of crops from the soil or like the production of articles in a factory. If wheat is not planted on a given field this year there is no reason why it cannot be planted on this field next year. And if a factory shuts down this year, there is no reason why the wheels cannot be started next year. But the thing which stops the production of milk usually is the killing off of the cows. And if the demand for milk is slight and the demand for beef is large with the price high, the dairyman is going to be forced to kill off his herds and sell them to the butcher.

And if this happens, where will we get our milk supply from next year? Dairy experts say it takes at least three years to build up a producing herd.

This is the milk situation at the present time and to show the proper relation of producer and consumer and distributor this big dairy show in New York has been planned.

In a graphic way the visitor to the show will see just what it costs to produce milk. He will see how elaborate and expensive is the system required to bring the milk to his door. The consumer will see that while milk seems high in price, as compared with other foods and its great food value, it is in reality cheap. Further it is capable of being used in almost countless ways of which the average housewife has never dreamed.

Dairy Farm in Operation.

Visitors will see an actual dairy farm in operation. This is to be the Dairyman's League contribution. They will also see how men are trained for the dairy industry at the state college of agriculture they will see all the complicated machines used in various dairy operations, they will see, being cooked, the different foods which can be made from milk and be able to sample them.

These are some of the reasons for the national milk and dairy farm exposition. But perhaps the most important reason for it is one which has been touched on in previous paragraphs—the health of the children.

Health of the Children.

In Poland at the present time there are said to be no cows. They have either been killed or carried off to Germany. Not only are there no cows, but there are also no children under 5 years of age.

Why? Because there has been no milk to feed the children, and without milk it is almost impossible for children to thrive. This has been shown in this country.

A small army of 250 investigators made a survey in New York city of 2,200 families, each having at least two children under six years of age. These investigators found that in a year the amount of milk purchased by these families had fallen from 4,797 quarts to 3,193 quarts. In these families there were 5,438 children under six years of age and 2,990 of them were found to be losing weight.

Milk contains certain elements which are necessary to the growth and development of the child and it contains them in greater quantities than does any other food and in a form in which it is easiest for the child to assimilate them.

The best reason, then, for holding this dairy and milk show is that people may have brought forcibly to their attention the fact that the keeping up of the milk industry is essential to the keeping up of the health of the children.

And nobody nowadays denies that the child life of a nation is the most valuable asset of its future.

Submarines.

It is impossible to name the real inventor of the submarine. Underwater boats have been a matter of study for 200 years. John P. Holland, an American, living in New York and New Jersey, developed the submarine to its present form. He built his first boats some time in the seventies, and in 1890 constructed one that met the approval of the naval authorities.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 17, 1918.

If an attempt is made to enforce the new "Anti-Loiter Law" vigorously there is bound to be considerable work for the legal profession. This statute requires every man between the ages of eighteen and fifty to be steadily engaged in some occupation which must be not only lawful, recognized and regular, but "useful" as well. The word "useful" has more than one meaning, but there seems no room for doubt that our lawmakers had in mind the sense of "bon-facial" to society. There is no unanimity of opinion on the classification of employments in this respect. Officials charged with rounding up offenders will have to use their personal judgment until such time as the courts have interpreted the law. We read in the New York papers that dancing teachers in that city are to be treated as useful workers, but this would not be done in a community where the inspectors were devout Methodists or Baptists. A prohibition inspector would be pretty sure to make all the bartenders change their occupation in a jiffy. An extreme Socialist might think it proper to make employes of banks take up some other work. An atheist inspector might feel warranted in shifting the dominions to other jobs. We could fill a column with similar suggestions of possibilities of trouble. Proceedings in our court rooms stand to become so exciting as to put the "movies" out of business.

Lost the foregoing observations should be thought fantastic we call attention to the fact that the New York Sun gravely asserts that Colonel House would be listed as a loafer within the meaning of the law but for the circumstances that he has passed the age limit. Now, everyone knows, the Colonel is President Wilson's chief adviser. It is he who has induced our Chief Magistrate to alter his policy of appointing only rubber stamps and lackeys to office, and to call for the services of men like Hughes and Schrab. Colonel House is certainly in a "useful" occupation, and the fact that so brilliant a writer as the Sun editor fails to see this is proof enough that men of lesser intelligence are bound to make serious errors in administering the law. We often shudder when we contemplate the possibility of a general strike by the givers of free advice. Few of us would care to undertake to manage a business or industrial enterprise if there were no one to drop in frequently and tell us just what to do. Unless this anti-loafer law is administered with the wisdom of Solomon chaos will come again.

The most cheering war news that has come in a long time was contained in a recent despatch from Bern which stated that the food situation in Austria is desperate and that it is generally realized that Ukraine will be unable to supply the needs of the Central Empire. The last statement is important if true, for although the German peace with Ukraine has been discussed generally from a purely military and political standpoint, its real bearing upon the war lay along economic lines that, singularly enough, have been very little discussed. A real peace with Ukraine would not only give the Central Powers access to greatly needed oil supplies, but from the ability to apply German efficiency and scientific management to the farming land of this enormously productive territory large supplies of food might be obtained for the relief of the starving people of Germany and Austria, provided the peace were real and the Central Powers could hold out until the Ukrainian crops could be harvested. This economic feature of the peace with Ukraine far outweighs in importance the political and military phases of the situation to which comment seems to have been confined, for Germany and Austria are likely to come to the bottom of the flour barrel long before their manpower is sufficiently reduced to compel them to yield, unless relief comes from conquered or practically conquered territory that is agriculturally productive.

In Germany loyal men and women unfit for military service are working the farms in the most efficient way known and it is by their efforts that Germany has been enabled to maintain its army in fighting condition. Production is limited only by acreage and ability to obtain fertilizing material. The agriculture of England and France is an almost negligible element, and until victory is won America must feed the people of these countries and their armies as well as itself. Its production is not limited by acreage nor by anything else beyond control, with the exception of weather conditions. While there is a labor shortage, as compared with conditions in Europe and especially in Germany, where more than 19 per cent of the population is in active military service while in the United States much less than 2 per cent of the population is similarly engaged. It may be argued that the men actually in military service are only a small portion of those withdrawn from productive work by reason of the war, and this is true, but has no bearing on the matter at the same condition obtains in all other countries at war.

In all this wonderful work of production under difficulties in Germany there does not appear to have been any question of profit raised. It is being done for what those who do it believe to be the common good. That their notions of what constitute good are perverted and that their patriotic endeavor goes to prolong a war in which their country stands on the side of evil does not make their work any the less effective. It is that work that America must meet, as well as furnish men for the fighting lines in France. So far it has met the situation as well as could be expected considering the happy-go-lucky American spirit of unpreparedness and there is every reason to believe that it will continue to rise to every need from motives of pure patriotism, notwithstanding the busy friends of the Kaiser who go about advocating profiteering, strikes and other methods of creating dissatisfaction and hampering production. This is no time to bring forward real or fancied grievances, to stir up trouble by disseminating false statistics like those recently cited by professional agitators and office seekers regarding a falling off in the wheat acreage, and the great mass of the American people, in all lines of industry, will be quick to discover the profiteer, the liar, the demagogue and the potential traitors who may flourish for a brief time, Americans as patriotic in a righteous cause as Germans are in an iniquitous one.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Pop, what are eyes and noses for in legislative bodies?" "With some of them, my child, they are first to scout jobs and then wink at them." —Baltimore American.

Clarence—"When I was quite a child, you know, I was told if I didn't stop smoking I would become feeble-minded." Clara—"Well, why didn't you stop?" —Judge.

Wife—"Archie's been gambling again, mother. I think he has lost his senses." Mother—"Indeed! I had no idea they played for such small stakes." —Boston Transcript.

A small boy who had been in the habit of leaving food on his plate was warned that Mr. Hoover would not approve of it. He meditatively replied, "The always had to mind daddy and mother and Aunt Mary, and God, and now here comes along Mr. Hoover." —Life.

"Savages will trade vast tracts of land for a string of beads." "Well," replied Miss Cayenne, "I know a man who wears evening clothes and carries a cane, and he did the same thing. He went broke trying to pay for a pearl necklace." —Washington Star.

As It Were.
George Ade had finished his speech at a dinner party, and on sealing himself a well-known lawyer rose, placed his hands deep into his trousers pockets, as was his habit, and laughingly inquired of those present:

"Doesn't it strike the company as a little unusual that a professional humorist should be funny?"

When the laugh had subsided Ade drew out:

"Doesn't it strike the company as a little unusual that a lawyer should have his hands in his own pockets?" —London Tit-Bits.

Out Of His Misery.
Wilson (who has met his friend whom he hasn't seen for some time):

"Let me see, you knew poor old Jackson didn't you?"

Johnson—"Yes, I know him well. Wilson—Then you will be pleased to hear he is out of his misery at last!"

Johnson—"You don't say so. Poor old fellow; but I always thought he would drop off suddenly. When did he die?"

Wilson—"Oh, he's not dead; it's his wife." —Pearson's Weekly.

Just So.
Suddenly and dramatically the maiden aunt swept into the drawing room to discover to her horror, her cherished ward sitting on a soldier's knee.

"Mabel!" she yelled. "How dare you!" When I was courting George he never took such liberties. He used to sit on a different chair altogether."

"Oh, did he?" drawled the soldier, as he critically examined the intruder.

Copeland Townsend, on a recent visit to his home town, Oconomowoc, Wis., heard the story of a well-known negro character of the town who had been sentenced to prison for life.

NEW BOARDING HOUSE.

Former Federation House Leased by Mrs. Boyce of Saugerties.

The Lindsley homestead on lower Hasbrouck, which was used for a number of years as the Federation House has been leased by Mrs. Boyce of Saugerties, who will conduct it as a boarding house. It is understood that she will board a number of the men employed at the new powder works in Port Ewen. The property is owned by the Newark Lime & Cement Company. Fire Commissioner Lahl is agent for the company and it was through him the lease was secured. The house is being thoroughly overhauled and placed in shape for its new purpose.

Slight fire in house of Mrs. Amanda Delamater on Third avenue.

Andrew J. Crookstone of Rutherfordville robbed of $100 by a Greek in his employ.

Little German Allies.

Look for German allies among the leaves of the currant and gooseberry bushes, and when you find the little green worm with black dots along its body you may be sure that they will strip the leaves and ruin the crop unless you cut after them with more efficient means than intending to kill them at some future time. Spraying is the easiest method of control. Use four tablespoonfuls of arsenate of lead paste, or two tablespoonfuls of arsenate of lead powder to a gallon of water and apply with a sprayer, not a sprinkler. See that every leaf is wet and the insect will then have to feed on the poison. Another efficient method is to mix one tablespoonful of arsenate of lead powder with about a pint of fine road dust or oil slaked lime and apply by means of a proper box or talcum powder can.

Fathers!
Remember your first long trousers?

You probably had some very definite ideas about what you wanted; boys generally do. But you very likely had to take the long trousers suit that somebody else picked out for you.

Just remember that experience when your boy is ready for his long trousers. If you send him to us, he'll get what he wants and it will be what you want, too, because—

He'll get a Hart Schaffner & Marx "Prep" suit which is so well made of such good materials that it wears a long, long time; that saves money for you. You undoubtedly want to be as economical about clothes as you can right at this time. This store is the place for him, and for you too.

Painless Dentistry

The difference between painless and painful dentistry depends upon the carefulness and skillfulness of the operator. With good instruments, fresh medicines, local anaesthetics and nitrous oxide gas a careful and skillful dentist can perform all operations painlessly, even to the extraction of teeth.

Painless methods, earnest endeavor and reasonable prices have in thirty years, made the Cady Dental Corporation the largest dental organization in New York state.

Don't Let BUGS Eat Up Your Garden

Of course, you will catch the big ones, but the little fellows! Look out for them. They are really quite as dangerous. Aphids, a little green bug, not much larger than a pin head, once it gets a start, will destroy a garden. It sucks the juices of the plants, stunts their growth and lowers both yield and quality. Spray pear, beans, cabbage, cauliflower, turnips, onions, cucumbers and other vegetables and flowers with Black Leaf 40.

Kills Aphids, Thrips, Leaf Hopper and other soft-bodied, sap-sucking insects on trees, shrubs, flowers, vines and vegetables.

Black Leaf 40 is highly concentrated. A little goes a long way. Manufactured by the Kentucky Tobacco Product Co., Inc., Louisville, Kentucky. We can supply your needs from one ounce for small vegetables and flowers up to 10-pound containers for large orchards. Recommended by Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations.

"THE GAMEST GUY" HE KNOWS OF

Sergeant Pink Tells of a Youngster Who Got Away From Nine Germans and Captured One of Them.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

With The American Army on The French Battle Front, May 16.—(Delayed)—Color Sergeant Thomas J. Pink, of Johnson City, Tenn., who is among the American troops holding part of the line on the Ploerd front, has been mentioned in general orders for saving several comrades when a German shell burst near a "chow gun" (portable cook stove).

Pink, who has been in the regular army for twenty-three years, was enthusiastic over the way the American guns have been answering the Germans.

"Believe me, our guns have been keeping Heine hopping," he exclaimed. "It has been one blazing hell. Enemy communication is impossible and the Huns cannot bring up grub to their first line most of the time. We give twice as much as is sent. That's Uncle Sam's pace."

"But it was dangerous for too many of the fellows to line up at once at the old 'chow gun' barn. (The company cook had evidently established himself in a barn) for the German shells were snapping everywhere. Suddenly a Hun shell busted right in the kitchen, killing three and wounding a few others. It sure bowled me over too. The old barn just tumbled down and pinned some of our fellows under the wreckage, but I managed to drag them out. For once the guys who kicked because I wouldn't let them crowd around the 'chow gun' gathered about and patted me on the back."

"Henny Owen of Marion, Ill., was put out by the concussion. Private John Mitchell got a bit of shrapnel in his helmet which bore a hole clean through it without touching the scalp. Johnny sure prizes that derby."

Then Sergeant Pink digressed: "But the gamest guy I know of, and I can't think of his name now, was a youngster who was captured by a German patrol of nine men. The kid had all his pockets full of hand grenades but he walked meekly enough along with his captors almost to their front line. Well, kept waiting until the Heinies would get in a bunch and when they did he pulled out the grenades, and let go with them, scattering the Boches like nine pins. Sergeant Fritz Sauer, who was in charge of the German patrol, fell right across our guy, who came back to our lines dragging the leader of the German patrol as his own personal prisoner. That was some kid, all right."

The capture of Sergeant Fritz Sauer was officially recorded as described by Sergeant Pink.

SUES CITY FOR $500 DAMAGES

Mrs. Sarah Huston of Post street fell on the sidewalk in front of the Hoffmann ice house on Spring street on January 10 of this year, and broke her wrist. Her suit to recover $500 from the city was tried in city court before Judge Schirick on Thursday and at the close the court reserved decision. She was represented by Judge N. Frank O'Reilly while W. D. Brinnier, Jr., represented the city. Eleven witnesses testified at the trial. Some said the sidewalk was in good condition and other that it was not. Two of Mrs. Huston's witnesses testified they had fallen that winter on the same sidewalk. Edward Ryan testified he had fallen on the walk on January 4 while going to his work on the ice. Mr. Moore testified she had fallen on the Friday after Christmas while on her way to visit Mrs. Huston.

The trial of the action brought by Miss Anna Stella Maker of Jarrold street, to recover damages for a fall on the sidewalk at the corner of Broadway and East Chestnut street, was adjourned for a week. She is also represented by Judge O'Reilly.

What Happened to Jones.

St. Mary's Dramatic Society will present the comedy "What Happened to Jones," on both Monday and Tuesday evening of next week. The performances starting at 8 o'clock on each evening. The cast, which is excellent, is made up of persons who have had considerable experience in the presenting of plays. Rehearsals have been in progress for some time and a large number of tickets have already been sold. The play is well known, having had a successful run in New York city a short time ago. Excellent instrumental music and vocal solos will be rendered between the acts.

Mothers' Day at Baptist Church.

Mothers' Day will be celebrated at the Wurts Street Baptist Church on Sunday morning. The pastor, the Rev. A. K. Fuller, is at Atlantic City where he is attending the North Baptist convention. The women of the church will have charge of the services that morning and Mrs. Laura MacMillan will speak on "How the American Woman is Meeting Her Responsibilities in the Great War." There will be no evening service.

Correct Observer.

A restaurant manager says that young women handle money more rapidly than the older ones, and we don't doubt it for a moment. The amount of money that can pass through the hands of a young woman has frequently paralyzed a young husband who thought he was something of a spendthrift himself.—Boston Transcript.

the man who put over the greatest campaign ever known in Ulster county. He predicted a greater success for the Red Cross campaign and urged thorough work, ending by calling for three cheers for John D. Schoonmaker.

"A member of the Red Cross executive committee who not only works in campaigns but for the past year has given most of his time to Red Cross work," Frank Cockendall, was next called upon. Mr. Cockendall said he was glad to see so many able and willing workers gathered as guests of the K. of C. to complete the organization for the campaign. The American Red Cross is doing so much to alleviate suffering in battle swept Europe and to care for those left behind in our own country. If it rendered no other than the home service it would be deserving of support. The work is in your hands. Success depends on you. Your efforts will largely determine what the people will contribute. Their contributions will be a concrete expression of real patriotism. They have been liberal in the past and you will find them so today. Some districts in the county have, perhaps, been allotted more than they can raise. Therefore the city must raise more than the $40,000 allotted to it if the county quota is to be raised. When peace and solace comes to all mankind, when the clouds have cleared and the strife is over and our flag floats with renewed luster and greater glory we will rejoice in the sacrifices we have made for the land we love so well.

Vincent A. Gorman outlined the plan of work and urged the workers to obey orders, especially to see that all cards are signed, give receipts for all money paid in and wear their badges.

Frank P. Messinger introduced the various ward teams and called on the leaders for brief speeches, after which the meeting closed with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner." The next meeting will be held at the M. C. A. on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

TALKS TO ACTRESS IN BATH

Interviewer for Chicago Newspaper Has His Own Troubles With Clara Kimball Young.

"I can't hear you," complained Clara Kimball Young.

"Turn off the water, then," cried the interviewer.

"The tub's only half full," said Clara.

"Can't take a bath in a tub half full. You'll have to speak louder."

The interviewer, said the interviewer, "we'll be ruined, what with the door closed and the water running."

"Til—Til—" exclaimed Clara. "Til—" "Turn off the water," suggested the reporter, protesting perhaps too much.

"Fine, now I can hear you."

"Fine," said the interviewer.

"Ouch, it's hot," cried Clara. There was a slight splash.

"I'll have to turn on the cold water. Will you wait a minute?"

"Certainly," agreed the interviewer.

"Oo," said Clara. There was another slight and delicate splash.

There was a pause.

"Oh, dear me, dear me," suddenly came from within. "I left my soap in my grip. I always use my own soap. Dear me, it's in my grip."

"I'll leave the room," said the interviewer. The interviewer left the room.

The interviewer, after counting 50 very slowly, returned to the room.

"O!!!"

"Pardon!!!"

"Heavens!!!"

"I thought—"

Bang went the door.

There was a gentle though nervous pause.

"Now we can proceed," said Clara.

"I'm sorry about the soap."

"Not at all," said the interviewer.

"Perfectly all right. My fault, you know. I counted 50. I should have counted 100. But I hate arithmetic."

"Do you like vampire roles, Mrs. Young?"

"Oh, so, so. I like most all kinds of acting. It's perfectly disgraceful, really, isn't it, being interviewed in one's bath."

"I should have counted 100," said the interviewer, contritely.

"Well, anyway, I'm glad you didn't merely count 10. That would have been dreadful. Now if you'll go out and count 200 I'll see you and have a real talk."

"I'll count 300 and walk around the corridor on my hands twice," said the interviewer. But he didn't. He went away.—Chicago News.

WOODSTOCK STARTS RED CROSS DRIVE

The Red Cross drive for funds was initiated in Woodstock Wednesday evening at a rousing meeting that filled Firemen's Hall to overflowing. The Patriotic Service League, organized in Woodstock to promote patriotism and to serve the government, is helping the Red Cross Chapter to obtain, as is usual in Woodstock, more than its quota of the fund. At the league's invitation, Mrs. Mary Hatch Willard, of the Red Cross, Sergeant Brown, a Canadian soldier wounded at Vimy Ridge, and Senator Walton spoke. Dr. M. B. Downer, surrounded by his aides in the coming drive, presided. Dr. Downer made a very clear statement of the purpose of the drive and what is expected of Woodstock. Senator Walton followed with a stirring patriotic appeal.

Mrs. Willard, fresh from the battle fronts of Europe, pictured vividly what is happening there, the suffering of the people, the devastation of the land, the pluck of the soldiers and the wonderful spirit of service shown everywhere in England, France and Italy. She pictured the thin line that is holding the Hun back from Paris. She pictured what would happen if that line should break—if the Hun should get to Paris, to England, and here. She urged that we give now not only our money, but our service. If we worked all day every day it would not be enough, for we must remember not only our boys who are there, but the boys of all the nations that have been fighting our battle for four years. And the Red Cross flag is everywhere. She spoke of the children of France and the grateful letters they write. "Thank God," she said, "We have shown ourselves worthy of the love of the children of France." We are there doing our part on the battle front. But we must fight the fight here. We must do all that we can do, and more, for we have not begun yet to do what we must do before this war is over. And we must do it in a spirit of loyalty that will not permit criticism of the government or the Red Cross. This criticism is German propaganda usually started as a bit of confidential gossip by a German agent.

Sergeant Brown told of his experience in the trenches and in hospital after receiving seven shrapnel wounds. He paid a beautiful tribute to the Red Cross in describing the way in which it meets the need of the soldier. The audience showed its appreciation of what he had done and what he stood for by spontaneously rising when he came forward to speak.

VICTORY MENUS.

These menus, planned to conserve time, labor and money, to save the foods that are scarce and use those of which there is an abundance, are Victory Menus in more senses than one. They are prepared by the Department of Home Economics of the State College of Agriculture and endorsed by the New York State Food Commission.

Saturday.

Breakfast—Baked sliced bananas; rolled oats with top milk; fish hash; coffee.

Lunch or Supper—Cheese soufflé with pimiento; scalloped potatoes; potato yeast bread; apple sauce.

Dinner—Rice and meat casserole, warmed over potatoes; Indian pudding; whipped cream; currant jelly garnish.

* (May be omitted and still leave a balanced meal.)

Milk for the children to drink at each meal.

They are properly prepared. After removing the skin carefully scrape off the outer surface of the banana. This outer layer contains an astringent substance which often causes difficulty in digestion. A banana should be thoroughly ripe before eaten. Bananas are more easily digested baked than raw.

Baked Sliced Bananas.

Peel, scrape and slice bananas; put into a greased baking dish in layers, and sprinkle with maple sugar; dot a tablespoon of butter over the top and sprinkle with the juice of half a lemon. Bake in a moderate oven half an hour. Serve very hot.

Cheese Soufflé.

Two tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, ½ cup scalded milk, ¼ teaspoon salt, Cayenne, ¼ cup American cheese, grated, yolks of 3 eggs, whites 3 eggs, 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento.

Melt the butter, add the flour and when well mixed add gradually the scalded milk. Then add salt, cayenne and the cheese. Remove from the fire; add yolks of eggs beaten until lemon colored, and the pimiento. Cool the mixture and cut and fold in the whites of eggs beaten until stiff. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake 20 minutes in a slow oven. Serve at once.

Rice and Meat Casserole.

One-half cup rice, uncooked, ½ cup chopped meat, 2 medium sized onions, 2 tablespoons fat, 2 cups tomatoes.

Boil the rice; add the onion in butter. Add seasoned diced meat. Rinse out frying pan with a little water, add the tomato and the uncooked rice. Place all in a casserole and bake about ½ hour, or until the rice is tomato color.

Recipes for any of the dishes in these menus, which cannot be found in cook books, may be had by writing to the Department of Home Economics, State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

Transplanting Into the Garden.

A cloudy day or any day toward evening is the best time for transplanting young plants into the garden. It is well in transplanting to pinch off some of the leaves. If all are left on they may throw off more moisture than the roots that have been reduced in number and length can supply. The plants will also stand transplanting better if the soil they grow in has been allowed to get rather dry for the last week or two, declares the state college of agriculture.

Before transplanting such plants as cabbage, lettuce, tomatoes, and the like, the box should be set out doors during mild weather to harden the plants. It is advisable to water the plants several hours before transplanting in order to secure a good ball of soil with the roots of each plant in setting out.

To transplant, first open a hole in moist ground with a trowel or dibble. Make the hole larger than is needed for the roots. Place the roots in the hole with the hands, pack the soil firmly about the roots and after the transplanting is finished pour about a pint of water around each plant. Rake a little dry earth over the surface surrounding each plant to hold the moisture.

Maple Sugar Crop Increased.

The production of maple sugar and syrup in New York state this season was apparently substantially greater than usual, and the quality was exceptionally high, according to the federal crop estimates. As a result of the sugar scarcity, the number of trees tapped was nearly ten per cent greater than last year; with the help of a favorable season, the production of sugar and syrup was increased nearly 26 per cent. Considering a gallon of syrup as equivalent to eight pounds of sugar, the total production of the two combined would be equal to 17½ million pounds of sugar. About 21 per cent of the sap was made into sugar, so the actual production of hard sugar was about 3,732,000 pounds, an increase of about 65 per cent over last year. The production of syrup is estimated to have been 1,755,000 gallons, an increase of 18 per cent.

The topic on Sunday night will be "The Menace of Peace," and this discussion, like the rest, will be characterized by great plainness of speech. The preacher will endeavor to point out the perils of an inconclusive peace. On the following Sunday night there will be a very large male chorus which will render patriotic music, and Dr. Baragwanath will speak on "Keep the Home-fires Burning."

COMFORT KITS
ARE PRESENTED

The conscripts who entrained today in response to the call for mechanics for Uncle Sam's service, reported Thursday afternoon at five o'clock at the office of local board for Division 1 or Ulster county, in the surrogate's office, to receive their instructions, and their comfort kits and Red Cross supplies.

The men were in the best of spirits and seemed glad to have the opportunity of giving their services for our country. They listened attentively to their military instructions.

Samuel Stern, secretary of local board for Division 1, made a brief address to the boys. He complimented them upon the spirit they were showing and said that Ulster was proud of her sons. This county has the reputation of sending clean-cut men, and the officials at the various training camps have spoken in complimentary terms of the way in which the boys from old Ulster have taken up their military duties.

All of the men reported when the roll was called. Martin Michael Dunn of 62 Hunter street, was named as captain of the four men who were assigned to Hoboken.

Mrs. Clara P. Van Wageningen and Arpha Moon assisted in giving out the Red Cross supplies and the comfort kits.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Lasher-Jones.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Anna C. Jones, Woodstock, N. Y., on Thursday, May 16, when her daughter, Josephine, was united in marriage to Richard J. Lasher of Woodstock, N. Y. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. L. Sherman, pastor of the Lutheran Church of that place.

Ninetieth Birthday Celebration.

On Thursday, May 16, a party of ladies paid a visit to the old homestead at the Burgevin nurseries, the occasion being the 90th birthday anniversary of the mother of David and George Burgevin. Mrs. Anna Burgevin, the hostess, was represented by Mrs. Post, the housekeeper, who had a nice spread prepared which was very much enjoyed by all. The principal guest was Mrs. Katherine Derrenbacher, who is 92 years of age, and as spry as a whip, having cast a wet vote at our last election. After the good cake and many other eatables were disposed of, the company assembled in the parlor, where singing, piano playing and other amusements were indulged in. Mrs. Derrenbacher and Mrs. Burgevin relating many incidents of the past, their old folks were made young again with the laughter of the young women present and at 6 p. m., everyone having had their fill of pleasure, started for home, voting a return of the meeting of the old as well as the young women at the next birthday of Mrs. Burgevin. Long may she live. Guests present were Mrs. Catherine Derrenbacher, who recently celebrated her 92nd birthday, Mrs. P. J. White, Miss A. E. Connelly, Mrs. J. Weiss, Miss T. Ketterer, Mrs. J. Pessaner, Mrs. J. Krieger, Mrs. Gweldner, Mrs. Bauer, Mrs. Broders, Mrs. Leder, Mrs. Van Demark, Mrs. MacGray, Mrs. Sagendorf, Mrs. Raible, Miss A. Raible, Mrs. Breitenbacher, Mrs. F. Brooks, Mrs. W. The worthy matron, Nellie C. Klotz, desires as large an attendance as possible.

Clinton Chapter, O. E. S., was invited to attend a meeting this week at Catskill, but owing to the illness of the matron the meeting has been indefinitely postponed.

Shopping at the Van Wageningen Store is Profitable!—

THERE is developing throughout the country a demand for better qualities in nearly every line of merchandise, particularly in women's ready-to-wear garments.

While better qualities may cost a little more than inferior grades, the difference is slight, and is much more than justified by the increase in serviceability.

Garments which are sold for unreasonably low prices are usually in common-place styles and are seldom of lasting qualities. Garments that are sold for legitimate prices are more likely to be correct in style and in quality, too.

At this store you will find ONLY the better class of merchandise. Under no consideration will we handle inferior qualities merely because of the price-appeal they make to a rapidly-decreasing class of inexperienced shoppers.

Elbert P. MacGowan

FIVE INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Miraculous Escape From Serious Injuries—One Car Wrecked and the Other Damaged—Two Young Women Taken to Kingston City Hospital.

Four young women and one man, all of Kingston, sustained cuts and bruises Thursday evening shortly after seven o'clock when an automobile in which the ladies were riding, driven by Miss Mildred Harrison, daughter of William R. Harrison of 87 Pearl street, and a car being driven by Clarence Harris of 251 Wall street, chauffeur for Mrs. Mary H. Hoar and Miss Ida Kerr of 55 Albany avenue, collided at Pearl and Fair streets.

Riding in the car with Miss Harrison were Miss Gertrude Smith, Miss Harrison's maid, Miss Anna Gaynor 32 Van Deusen street, and Miss Emily Bartsch of 25 Warren street. Miss Gaynor and Miss Smith were taken to the Kingston City Hospital. After having their injuries dressed by Dr. E. E. Norwood, they were taken to their home.

Miss Bartsch was taken to her home. Her injuries were dressed by Dr. Norwood.

Miss Harrison lives near the scene of the accident and was able to walk home. Her injuries were attended to by Dr. E. E. Sibley.

Mr. Harris sustained cuts about the body and face and injured his knee. His clothing in places was torn in shreds. His injuries are not of a serious nature.

It seems a miracle that the young women and Mr. Harris did not sustain serious and perhaps fatal injuries. The cars came together with a crash that was heard several blocks away. Harris was driving a McFarlan car. The car turned over and the fact that the top was down probably saved him from being seriously injured. Miss Harrison was driving an Oldsmobile. Miss Bartsch was riding in the front seat with her. All of the young women were flung out.

The McFarlan car was practically wrecked, the steering wheel smashed, the right fender ripped off, right front wheel smashed and engine wrecked. The damage to the Oldsmobile was comparatively slight. The left fender was bent, the left front wheel smashed and the engine somewhat damaged.

Harris was the only person in the car which he was driving. He was going up Fair street toward Main.

Miss Harrison was driving down Pearl street from Clinton avenue toward Wall and therefore had the right of way. It is said that neither party saw the other until the last moment. No one was able Thursday night to give a definite account of how it happened. The cars met in the center of the trolley track, and both swerved to avoid collision.

Harris to his left and Miss Harrison to her right, and up Fair street. The Harris car was apparently running the faster, as it continued a short distance before turning on its left side. The ambulance was called out and arrived in record time, but its services were not needed.

News of the accident spread quickly and soon there was a large crowd congregated. Several policemen kept the crowd back and took care of the traffic.

The Oldsmobile was taken to the Stuyvesant garage. The McFarlan was taken to Forsyth and Davis's garage.

Miss Harrison stated today that she was not driving faster than eighteen or twenty miles an hour, and that she was in no way to blame for the accident.

DAY'S WAR NEWS AT A GLANCE

American troops are now standing upon the Picardy and Flanders battle fronts, two theaters of the bloodiest struggle the world has ever known.

For several weeks Americans have been fighting shoulder to shoulder with the French upon the Picardy front but it was not until today that it was known that part of General Pershing's army had been sent into the northern fighting zone where the British are holding back the Hun.

The inspiring and important news that Americans are now with the British on the vital Flanders front came to America with the electric thrill. It means that when Von Hindenburg finally renews his drive, that the boys from the United States will have a part in the great task of beating off what may be the most terrific assaults of the war.

So far as the censor has permitted it is to be known Americans are now located on the western front at the following places:

In French Lorraine, north of Toul, on the heights of the Meuse river (On the western edge of the Moselle Plain), at a certain point in the Champagne district (Between Rheims and the Argonne Forest) where American artillery was reported by the French war office to have reinforced the French, in the Chemin des Dames sector, north of the Aisne river, south of Montdidier, and on the front in northern France.

The exact location of the American in northern France was not revealed, as it has been the policy of the military censors to conceal the positions of the United States forces until it is actually known that the Germans possess this information.

Violent artillery combats continue on the battle fronts, but there has been no break in the infantry deadlock except for minor enterprises which possess no great importance.

London reported that the artillery activity is increasing at points on the Flanders front, notably between Lecon and Hinges and between Meteren and the Nieppe Forest. However, it is impossible to say whether or not this intensive firing to another series of infantry thrusts.

Bombardments of tremendous fury are still raging in the sector of Hallies, southeast of Amiens. The Germans are using up immense quantities of big gun ammunition without following up the cannonades with infantry assaults, so that it has become a matter of mere guesswork to tell when von Hindenburg will strike again.

The thunder of battle never dies out completely along the battle line, but for several weeks now it has become confined largely to artillery and airmen. Infantry has been used for raiding and patrol purposes, but there have been no attacks on a grand scale.

This was the fifty-eighth day of the German offensive.

Optimistic Thought.
Reserve often accomplishes more than bluster.

If we could read the secret history of our enemies, we should find in each man's life sorrow and suffering enough to disarm all hostility.—Longfellow.

HELPFUL HINTS AND ECONOMIES

A most tasty fat for various uses may be made by trying out suet and mixing it while still hot with an equal portion of lard, stir until well mixed, and it will always stay soft enough to be mixed into any food.

When giving a baby medicine, place the tip of the spoon against the roof of the baby's mouth; in this way it is impossible for the child to choke or object to the contents of the spoon by sputtering. When teaching a baby to eat from a spoon the same method will prove useful.

An old cook claims that all fish are better if allowed to lie two hours or more before they are cooked. A medicine dropper which refuses to function will be made active again by dropping it into hot water. The heat softens the rubber and expands it.

A thick slice of ham parboiled in a little water, then covered with sweet milk and a little brown sugar, and baked slowly, makes a most delicious meat dish.

A piano tuner advises the use of a small dish of water in the back part of the instrument to counteract the dryness of the room due to furnace heat. This will keep the piano in tune.

The old batteries which are useless and discarded from the auto may be burned in the grate after a wood fire has been started, making the most beautiful colors, especially delightful for a festive party.

A tablespoonful of olive oil with a few drops of vinegar will cause a midnight cough when all else fails. Half of a wooden clothes pin will keep a wind-rattled window quiet through the sleeping hours. A clothes pin or two will be found convenient to carry in one's suit case for various emergencies besides noisy windows.

A large market basket kept in the kitchen and used to carry down cellar, will save many steps, canned fruit, jelly and vegetables may be carried up in it. Such a basket will be found useful for carrying things upstairs and down.

CORP. WINCHELL MEETS LEAH

One of Our Boys in France Goes to Church and Likes the Minister's Daughter Better Than the Sermon.

Camp Dix, N. J., May 11.—Lieutenant Wells, of Co. L, 310th Regiment, has received a letter from Corporal J. Edw. Winchell, stating that he has arrived in France safely. This is what Corporal Winchell writes:

Somewhere in France, April 18.—I have arrived safely "over here." I am now in Paris. This is sure to be a very beautiful country (over here). I have not been assigned to any company yet. Every time a cannon goes off over here I tremble like a leaf. And I am sure you would if you were here. Hal! Hal! I am going to tell you a story. I went to church Sunday morning, and I met a little French girl. She was nice too. Her father is a minister. She has big brown eyes and she had on wooden shoes. Her name is Leah. The sermon was in French. I couldn't understand much of it. Has Co. L, 310th, left Camp Dix yet? Do you remember Roscoe North? Well, I met him over here. He looks fine. I am living a life like a real man now, and not like a soldier. My little French girl invited me over to see her and had a lot of things to eat. All I do now is rest in the Bible. Well, old top, I will close, hoping to hear from you or see you soon, I am your true friend.

CORP. J. EDWARD WINCHELL.
P. S.—I have no address yet. Col. Hancock states Corporal Winchell will soon be promoted to sergeant.

Old "Ohio Company."

The so-called "Ohio company" of early times was organized in Boston in 1798 for the purpose of buying government land and founding a settlement northwest of the Ohio river. In 1787 its agents contracted with congress for 1,500,000 acres of land and obtained an option for 5,000,000 acres. The company founded the town of Marietta, O., which became an early center of New England influence in the Northwest. The contract made by the Ohio company contained the first national land grant for a university.

Sentiment Uttered by Many.

The origin of the expression "In union there is strength" is not known, but the sentiment in various forms has been current a very long time. A Latin author of ancient times said: "By union the smallest states thrive, by discord the greatest are destroyed." The American author of "The Flag of Our Union" said: "United we stand, divided we fall."

Changed Subject of Woe.

Irene was crying in bed because her mamma insisted she should wear a certain nightgown. At last mamma said: "Why, Irene, how foolish to cry about that! You'll sleep just as well in that gown as any other." She stopped long enough to say, very satisfied: "But, mamma, you don't know. I've changed my mind and I'm crying about another thing now."

LAWYERS WARNED OF NEAR-TREASON

Disloyal and Unprofessional to Obstruct Work of Draft Boards by Pressing Claims for Exemption and Deferred Classification.

New York city lawyers are warned that it is "disloyal and unprofessional" to persist in efforts to obtain deferred classification for draft registrants whose cases have already been passed on by proper draft officials in a statement by Henry W.
Taft, chairman of the war committee of the local bar, yesterday.

"Martin Conboy, director of the draft here," reads Mr. Taft's statement, "has informed the war committee of the bar that in a great number of cases where the claims of registrants have already been carefully considered and determined afdavits are being prepared and filed by lawyers with the director of the draft and the local exemption boards throughout the city are being urged as the basis for reopening the cases so as to obtain a deferred classification."

"These affidavits," he says, "are imposing in their looks," but of no value to the registrants. "The persistence with which the claims are being pushed, the director of the draft believes, is due to the effort of the lawyers to obtain fees from registrants who are either too ignorant to protect themselves or are unduly solicitous to escape serving their country. Mr. Conboy informs this committee that the whole matter is a source of vast annoyance to the officials in charge of the selective service and is seriously interfering with the proper enforcement of the law."

"Whether it is unprofessional for members of the bar to accept pecuniary retainers from registrants or not, it is certainly clear that patriotism and professional duty should deter lawyers from representing registrants, particularly those whose cases have once been passed on, unless, upon a conscientious examination of the fact, they satisfy themselves that injustice has been done."

"Except in such cases, persistent and partisan efforts to obtain a deferred classification are disloyal and unprofessional. Registrants can procure proper assistance, without paying compensation, from members of the Legal Advisory Board, and lawyers consulted by registrants should inform them of that fact."

"The Provost Marshal General has stated that the regulations give to the legal profession a definite place in the organized ranks of the nation, offering them 'the active duty of assisting in the raising of our armies,' and that the performance of such duty would not 'make any demand on the time of any lawyer to which any patriotic citizen would hesitate to respond.'"

"He added that 'it should become the pride of every lawyer that no registrant within his district is without competent legal advice and assistance in preparing all papers that such registrant is required to submit in the process of selecting citizens of this nation for duty in the present emergency.'"

"By section 45 of the regulations lawyers are urged 'freely and without compensation to give their best services to the nation.' The activities of the lawyers to which the director of the draft calls attention are in direct antagonism to the spirit in which the government has thus invoked the bar of the country to aid in the making of an army."

"Such activities should not only be discouraged, but also denounced."

Address by Mrs. Baker.

On Wednesday afternoon, a group of faithful women worked steadily at the hospital garments at Red Cross headquarters, although they all wanted very much to go to the high school and hear Mrs. Baker, the head of their special department, address the women workers. This fact came to the knowledge of Mrs.
Baker, and after leaving the high school she went directly to the Red Cross headquarters, and especially addressed the women there. She complimented them, not only upon their work but upon their loyalty to duty, and every woman who heard her there will hereafter be doubly a Red Cross worker. Mrs. Baker inspected the headquarters before leaving and expressed her approval and cordial appreciation of the excellent manner in which the work of every sort at headquarters is carried on.

Food Demonstration Meeting.

The women of Kingston are reminded of the canning demonstration and meeting to be held at the high school auditorium on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. At that meeting there will be in addition to the canning demonstration an exhibition of home made war breads of various sorts. Furthermore, plans will be formulated and completed for the operation of a community kitchen in this city this spring and summer.
No housekeeper should miss attending this meeting, for food saving is a most important war winning work.

Red Cross Meetings Tonight.

Chairman Fowler, of the speakers' committee of the Red Cross war fund campaign, announces that this evening Senator Walton and Private Southerton of Canada will address a big Red Cross meeting at Sangerties.

Another enthusiastic meeting will be addressed at Port Ewen by A. D.
Van Buren, Miss Georgia Claflin and Sergeant Brown of Canada, who will also speak to the people of South Rondout.

Annual Federation Meeting.

Tomorrow afternoon the women of the Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs will hold an open meeting in addition to their election of officers at 2:30 o'clock in the chapel of the First Dutch Church. Following the business session, the Monday
Club will be the entertaining club, and they will present as the speaker of the afternoon Dr. Baragwanath, who will address the gathering on the timely topic, "Women and the War."

MONDAY--Frank Hall Presents "THE BAR SINISTER"

PREPARATIONS FOR RED CROSS CAMPAIGN

The preparations for the coming Red Cross campaign as far as this county is concerned, are going forward, most enthusiastically. The many women, war workers of the Woman's Home Defense Committee of the county, who are acting as advance agents, have practically canvassed the city, telling the story of the work and the needs of the Red Cross to every family, and leaving little leads to be digested by the people at their leisure during the few days before the campaign. In many cities, especially in New Jersey and Connecticut the people are assuming a larger quota than that fixed by the central committee of the campaign.
It looks now as though Ulster county, without any such action, would go well over the top.

Chairman John D. Schoonmaker

and Secretary Ralph Cohen have been making a flying trip through southern Ulster, visiting various committees and teams and rendering such assistance as they could in the preparation for the big drive next week.

Wind Always Supreme.

The wind is the servant of man, but not always the willing servant. The sailor must bend his sails to the will of the wind. The wind is one of nature's forces which will work, but never in harness. We have the soothing breeze and the terrifying tempest, the one differs from the other only in force. The music of both to the un-strafed ear is the same.

Swedish Engineers' Success.

Swedish engineers have solved the problem of keeping the population of Sweden comfortable during their severe winters by utilizing the energy of the natural water powers of that country for the creation of electricity, which has become the chief source of heat. Hot water tanks in hotels and all public buildings are heated by this method.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 17.—There was a resumption of aggressive buying in a number of issues at the opening of the stock market today, with Marine Preferred becoming the most prominent feature, advancing 2 1/2 to 98 with the buying coming almost wholly from sources supposed to be well informed in regard to the companies affairs. The common stock was also strong, moving up one point to 25 1/2. Mexican Petroleum was another strong feature, selling up 1 1/2 to 101 1/2, and some of the copper stocks reflected accumulation, with Anaconda making a gain of 3/4 to 79. There was a resumption of accumulation in Baldwin, which opened 1 1/2 higher at 97 1/2 but reacted later to 95 1/2. Midvale Steel opened up one point to 58, with a reaction to 56 1/2. Steel Common yielded one point to 110 1/2, followed by a rally to 111 1/2.

Most interest during the forenoon was attached to the trading in Marine Preferred which moved up 4 1/2 points to 100, while the common rose nearly 3 points to 28 1/2, with most of the buying coming from strong sources. The steel issues were irregular, commission house liquidation causing declines in the first hour, some of which were recovered. Steel Common after declines to 110 1/2, rose to above 112 and Baldwin after dropping to 96 1/2, rallied to 97 1/2. The other steel industrial moved in about the same way. The railroad stocks were generally strong, Union Pacific moving up 1 1/2 to 125 1/2, and Reading sold up to 89 1/2.

Railways and reactions were in constant occurrence during the afternoon but most of the stocks yielded a point or more. Interest concentrated in the Marine issues, the preferred dropping to 95 1/2 after selling at 100 1/2, but soon rallied to 99 1/2. Steel Common sold down to 110 1/2, and Baldwin after selling down to 94 1/2, moved up to 97 1/2. Studebaker lost 2 points from its high, dropping to 41 1/2.

The stock market closed irregular today; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds steady.

WHY MILK SHOW SHOULD BE HELD

Suspicion of Producer, Distributor and Consumer for Each Other Threatening Industry Vital to Health of Nation.

A national milk and dairy farm exposition, the biggest thing of its kind ever attempted, will be held in Grand Central Palace, New York city, the week of May 20. The exposition will cost $100,000.

Why spend all this money on a milk show when the demands for red cross, Y. M. C. A., and all sorts of war activities are crowding in from all sides?

Why? Because the milk industry has a direct relation to the successful waging of the war and the keeping of our nation fit. In fact, if the dairy men kill off their cows because of the demand for their products has fallen off—as it has at the present time—a serious milk shortage is threatened next year. And a milk shortage means danger to the health of the nation, especially of the children.

The increasing cost of milk caused by the increasing cost of keeping and feeding the cows and the increasing cost of distributing the milk, together with a growing suspicion of producer, distributor and consumer for each other, has greatly reduced the consumption of milk. In New York city, for example, figures show that it has fallen off 25 per cent. This means that great stores of condensed milk and cream have been piling up in the warehouses and cold storages. Again, with summer coming on, when the cows are put out to pasture and the flow of milk increases, it will be impossible to use up the milk unless every one is made to see that not only is it a duty he owes himself but his country to use all the milk he can.

Milk Not Like Crops.

The production of milk is not like the production of crops from the soil or like the production of articles in a factory. If wheat is not planted on a given field this year, there is no reason why it cannot be planted on this field next year. And if a factory shuts down this year, there is no reason why the wheels cannot be started next year. But the thing which stops the production of milk usually the killing off of the cows. And if the demand for milk is slight and the demand for beef is large with the price high, the dairyman is going to be forced to kill off his herds and sell them to the butcher.

And if this happens, where will we get our milk supply from next year? Dairy experts say it takes at least three years to build up a producing herd.

This is the milk situation at the present time and to show the proper relation of producer and consumer and distributor this big dairy show in New York has been planned.

In a graphic way the visitor to the show will see just what it costs to produce milk. He will see how elaborate and expensive the system required to bring the milk to his door. The consumer will see that while milk seems high in price, as compared with other foods and its great food value, it is in reality cheap. Further it is capable of being used in almost countless ways of which the average housewife has never dreamed.

Dairy Farm in Operation.

Visitors will see an actual dairy farm in operation. This is to be the Dairyman's League contribution. They will also see how men are trained for the dairy industry at the state college of agriculture they will see all the complicated machines used in various dairy operations. They will see, being cooked, the different foods which can be made from milk and be able to sample them.

These are some of the reasons for the national milk and dairy farm exposition. But perhaps the most important reason for it is one which has been touched on in previous paragraphs—the health of the children.

Health of the Children.

In Poland at the present time there are said to be no cows. They have either been killed or carried off to Germany. Not only are there no cows, but there are also no children under 5 years of age.

Why? Because there has been no milk to feed the children, and without milk it is almost impossible for children to thrive. This has been shown in this country.

A small army of 250 investigators made a survey in New York city of 2,200 families, each having at least two children under six years of age. These investigators found that in a year the amount of milk purchased by these families had fallen from 4,797 quarts to 3,193 quarts. In these families there were 3,428 children under six years of age and 2,950 of them were found to be losing weight.

Milk contains certain elements which are necessary to the growth and development of the child and it contains them in greater quantities than does any other food and in a form in which it is easiest for the child to assimilate them.

The best reason, then, for holding this dairy and milk show is that people may have brought forcibly to their attention the fact that the keeping up of the milk industry is essential to the keeping up of the health of the children.

And nobody nowadays denies that the child life of a nation is the most valuable asset of its future.

Summary.

It is impossible to name the real inventor of the submarine. Underwater boats have been a matter of study for 300 years. John P. Holland, an American, living in New York and New Jersey, developed the submarine to its present form. He built his first boat some time in the seventies, and in 1880 constructed one that met the approval of the naval authorities.

PLEDGE.

Believing that my country needs my services to help win the war against German Imperialism and Ruthless Hun Butchery, I hereby pledge myself to WORK AT LEAST ONE DAY and days if called upon, on any farm within driving distance of Kingston, during the Spring, Summer or Fall of 1918, when called upon the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, through the Ulster county Farm Bureau, provided I am transported to and from the farm where I am to work, without cost to me in thus giving some farmer my services when he needs me, to save his crops. I will be serving my country and contributing in this manner to providing more food for our soldier boys in the trenches. It is mutually understood that I am to have at least 24 hours' notice in advance of the day I am expected to go to some farm and work.

Have you ever done any farm or garden work?
State any experience you have had in farm work and kind of work preferred

The undersigned hereby agrees with the above party that no undue advantage will be taken of this voluntary pledge of patriotic service, and that the volunteer will only be called upon in emergency when some farmer actually needs his services.

ED. M. HEERMANS,
Executive Secretary, Kingston Chamber of Commerce.

Nature's Forethought.

Animals that require great speed in securing their food or escaping their enemies, have no collarbones. The shoulders are fastened to the trunk by muscles. This prevents jarring after a long leap, or, in other words, if they had a collarbone, with the shoulder firmly fixed in it, there would be a tremendous shock when an animal came to the earth after leaping. Nature has looked after it in a common sense way.

Value of Old Shoes.

From one ton of old shoes can be extracted metals to the value of $4.70; grease, $7.25; animal black, $50; sulphate of ammonia, $22.50; a total of $84.45, or about 15 cents a pair. The grease is a good lubricant and the animal black is said by M. C. Lamb, the English chemist who is responsible for these figures, to be equal to the best of bone black.

Coal in Caucasus Region.

While peasants were recently digging a well near the village of Tzaridvor, in the Ressen valley, in the Caucasus, coal was found 16 feet from the surface; the vein, however, was but 2.25 feet in thickness. Enough coal has already been found in this particular locality to supply the entire neighborhood, and in all probability there are other and greater deposits not yet located.

The First Primitive Measures.

Doubtless measures of all kinds were originally taken from the human body. An inch is roughly the length of the top joint of the thumb. A span is a quarter of a pace, and a pace is half one's height. The span and the pace were probably the foundation of all measurement, and we will speak quite commonly of so many paces distant.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Ruth VanDyke, aged two years, died at her home 47 VanBuren St. Thursday night. The funeral will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence. Funeral private.

Joel Stewart, for many years landlord of the Central Hotel in Saugerties, died at his home in Grinnell, Iowa, on April 28th. He was 85 years of age. Mr. Stewart was a brother of the late John H. Stewart of West Camp and Mrs. A. Timmerman of Palenville.

The funeral of Fred Pietz was held Saturday from the home of his brother-in-law, Paul Biesel, No. 228 Smith street, Brooklyn. Besides his wife, who before her marriage was Miss Bessie Biesel of West Hurley, he is survived by a son, Oswald, and one sister. Mr. Pietz was well known in Kingston and West Hurley and had many friends who will deeply mourn his loss.

Nathaniel Stone died Thursday evening at his home, No. 484 First street, Brooklyn. He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. E. Harder and Mrs. E. Smith, both of Brooklyn. Mr. Stone was an uncle of Mrs. J. Huhne of Abel street, this city. He is a former resident of Woodstock and the funeral will be held Monday at Woodstock.

E. B. Dexter died suddenly in his home in Marlborough early Monday morning from the effects of heart trouble. Mr. Dexter attended church service on Sunday evening, returned home and at 11 p. m. was taken ill. At 1 p. m. he passed away. He was born in Wappingers Falls and conducted a store in Brooklyn for a number of years, from whence he came to Marlborough and has conducted a successful dry goods store in Main street for the past 20 years. He is survived by one son, Halls, and two daughters, Esther and Mrs. Alexander Johnson, of Marlborough. Funeral services were held in the house at 2 o'clock Wednesday by the Rev. Robert Knapp. Interment was in Poughkeepsie, where his wife is buried.

Some Use in Sawdust.

The deadly wood alcohol is about as useful an agent as any that results from the distillation process. Manufacturers of films of shellac and celluloid require large quantities. Compounds used in medicine and surgery even have it in their make-up. There is an anesthetic made from it, and it is of consequence in formaldehyde manufacture, the uses for which are of wide scope.

The huge annual loss from grass smuts, estimated at from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000, is readily controlled by soaking the seed in this material. Grain alcohol is not produced in this manner, but as it is used in large quantities in munition plants it may as well be mentioned here, especially as the sawdust piles of the mills when spruce and pine are sawn ought to be supplying a good deal of this that is at present derived from molasses.

The unnecessary use of anything sweet for such a purpose goes against the grain of a people who are denying

Why Person Freezes to Death.

During the deep sleep which follows extreme fatigue the sensitiveness of the nervous system is greatly reduced, and it becomes unable to perceive the lowness of temperature. The unconsciousness of sleep gradually passes into the unconsciousness of collapse. According to the popular belief such a man dies "frozen to death," but as a matter of fact he was killed long before his temperature fell to zero.

What really killed him was the reduction of the activity of his tissue, which always follows the loss of acryous control. As a result there was less and less chemical change accompanied by the production of heat, and at an internal temperature of about 68 degrees life ceased.

That is why, as experience has often shown, the weary traveler who gives way to the imperative desire to sleep on the line of march is doomed to death when he has no adequate protection from extreme cold.

But She Blamed Him Just the Same.

Mr. Smith—I see that Mrs. McQue has just passed without sneaking. I thought you were great friends.

Mr. Brown—No, we are not on the best of terms just now.

Smith—How's that?
Brown—Well, you see, it's like this.

You remember the fire that took place at their house about a fortnight ago. Well, I ran for a long plank to put it up at the window, so that she might slide down before the fire brigade arrived. But how was I to know there was a nail in it?

Industry Booms in China.

The use of motorcars in Hongkong is comparatively limited, but at present there is what might be classed as a motorcar boom in the colony. The government is planning a comprehensive system of road building and improvement, and in fact, already has started actual work on roads that will extend the use of the motorcar. The weather Chinese have taken to motor-ing enthusiastically.

Don't Let BUGS Eat Up Your Garden

Of course, you will catch the big ones, but the little fellows! Look out for them. They are really quite as dangerous. Aphids, a little green bug, not much larger than a pin head, once it gets a plant, will destroy a garden. It sucks the juices of the plants, stunts their growth and lowers both yield and quality. Saw pear, beans, cabbage, cauliflower, turnips, onions, cucumbers and other vegetables and flowers with Black Leaf 40.

Kills Aphids, Thrips, Leaf Hopper and other sucking insects on trees, shrubs, flowers, vines and vegetables. Black Leaf 40 is highly concentrated. A little goes a long way. Manufactured by the Kentucky Tobacco and Chemical Co., Louisville, Kentucky. You can save your garden from one of the worst pests by using only one quart of Black Leaf 40. Recommended by the National College of Entomology and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"THE GAMEST GUY" RED CROSS FUND GETS FLYING START

Sergeant Fink Tells of a Youngster Who Got Away From Nine Germans, and Captured One of Them.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

With The American Army on The French Battle Front, May 14.—(Delayed)—Color Sergeant Thomas J. Fink, of Johnson City, Tenn., who is among the American troops holding part of the line on the Picardy front, has been mentioned in general orders for saving several comrades when a German shell burst near a "chow gun" (portable cook stove).

Fink, who has been in the regular army for twenty-three years, was enthusiastic over the way the American guns have been answering the Germans.

"Believe me, our guns have been keeping the Huns hopping," he exclaimed. "It has been one blazzing hell. Enemy communication is impossible and the Huns cannot bring up their first line much of the time. We give twice as much as is sent. That's Uncle Sam's pace."

"But it was dangerous for too many of the fellows to line up at once at the old 'chow gun' barn. (The company cook had evidently established himself in a barn) for the German shells were snapping everywhere. Suddenly a Hun shell hit right in the kitchen, killing three and wounding a few others. It sure bowled me over, too. The old barn just tumbled down and pinned some of our fellows under the wreckage. But I managed to drag them out. For once the guys who kicked because I wouldn't let them crowd around the chow gun gathered about and patted me on the back."

"Benny Owen of Marion, Ill., was put out by the concussion. Private John Mitchell got a bit of shrapnel in his helmet which bore a hole clean through it without touching the scalp. Johnny sure prizes that derby."

Then Sergeant Fink digressed: "But the gamest guy I know of, and I can't think of his name now, was a youngster who was captured a German patrol of nine men. The kid had all his pockets full of hand grenades but he walked meekly enough along with his captors almost to their front line. Well, kept waiting until the Germans would get in a bunch and when they did he pulled out the grenades and let go with them, scattering the Boches like nine pins. Sergeant Fritz Sauer, who was in charge of the German patrol, fell right across our guy, who came back to our lines dragging the leader of the German patrol as his own personal prisoner. That was some kid, all right."

The capture of Sergeant Fritz Sauer was officially recorded as described by Sergeant Fink.

SUES CITY FOR $500 DAMAGES

Mrs. Sarah Huston of Post street, tell on the sidewalk in front of the Hoffmann Ice house on Spring street on January 10 of this year, and broke her wrist. Her suit to recover $500 from the city was tried in city court before Judge Schirck on Thursday and at the close of the court reserved decision. She was represented by Judge N. Frank O'Reilly while W. D. Brinnier, Jr., represented the city. Eleven witnesses testified at the trial. Some said the sidewalk was in good condition and other that it was not. Two of Mrs. Huston's witnesses testified they had fallen that winter on the same sidewalk. Edward Ryan testified he had fallen on the walk on January 4 while going to his work on the job. Mrs. Moore testified she had fallen on the Friday after Christmas while on her way to visit Mrs. Huston.

The trial of the action brought by Miss Anna Stella Maxer of Jarrod street, to recover damages for a fall on the sidewalk at the corner of Broadway and East Chestnut street, was adjourned for a week. She is also represented by Judge O'Reilly.

What Happened to Jones.

St. Mary's Dramatic Society will present the comedy "What Happened to Jones," on both Monday and Tuesday evening of next week. The performance, starting at 8 o'clock on each evening, is made up of persons who have had considerable experience in the presenting of plays for some time and a large number of tickets have already been sold. The play is well known, having had a successful run in New York city a short time ago. Excellent instrumental music and vocal solos will be rendered between the acts.

Mothers' Day at Baptist Church.

Mothers' Day will be celebrated at the Wurst Street Baptist Church on Sunday morning. The pastor, the Rev. A. K. Fuller, is at Atlantic City where he is attending the North Baptist convention. The women of the church will have charge of the services that morning and Mrs. Laura MacMillan will speak on "How the American Woman is Meeting Her Responsibilities in the Great War." There will be no evening service.

Correct Observer.

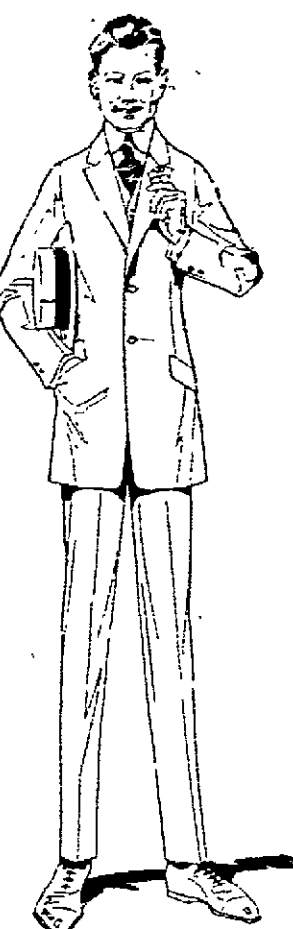

A restaurant manager says that young women handle money more rapidly than the older ones, and we don't doubt it for a moment. The amount of money that can pass through the hands of a young woman has frequently paralyzed a young husband who thought he was something of a spendthrift himself.—Boston Transcript.

FIVE INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Miraculous Escape From Serious Injuries—One Car Wrecked and the Other Damaged—Two Young Women Taken to Kingston City Hospital.

Four young women and one man, all of Kingston, sustained cuts and bruises Thursday evening shortly after seven o'clock when an automobile in which the ladies were riding, driven by Miss Mildred Harrison, daughter of William R. Harrison of 87 Pearl street, and a car being driven by Clarence Harris of 251 Wall street, chauffeur for Mrs. Mary H. Hoar and Miss Ida Kerr of 55 Albany avenue, collided at Pearl and Fair streets.

Riding in the car with Miss Harrison were Miss Gertrude Smith, Miss Harrison's maid, Miss Anna Gaynor 22 Van Deusen street, and Miss Emily Bartsch of 35 Warren street. Miss Gaynor and Miss Smith were taken to the Kingston City Hospital. After having their injuries dressed by Dr. E. E. Norwood, they were taken to their home.

Miss Bartsch was taken to her home. Her injuries were dressed by Dr. Norwood.

Miss Harrison lives near the scene of the accident and was able to walk home. Her injuries were attended to by Dr. E. E. Norwood.

Mr. Harris sustained cuts about the body and face and injured his knee. His clothing in places was torn in shreds. His injuries are not of a serious nature.

It seems a miracle that the young women and Mr. Harris did not sustain serious and perhaps fatal injuries. The cars came together with a crash that was heard several blocks away. Harris was driving a McFarlan car. The car turned over and the fact that the top was down probably saved him from being seriously injured. Miss Harrison was driving an Oldsmobile. Miss Bartsch was riding in the front seat with her. All of the young women were flung out.

The McFarlan car was practically wrecked, the steering wheel smashed, the right fender ripped off, right front wheel smashed and engine wrecked. The damage to the Oldsmobile was comparatively slight. The left fender was bent, the left front wheel smashed and the engine somewhat damaged.

Harris was the only person in the car which he was driving. He was going up Fair street toward Main. Miss Harrison was driving down Pearl street from Clinton avenue toward Wall and therefore had the right of way. It is said that neither party saw the other until the last moment. No one was able Thursday night to give a definite account of how it happened. The cars met in the center of the trolley track, and both swerved to avoid collision. Harris to his left and Miss Harrison to her right, and up Fair street. The Harris car was apparently running the faster, as it continued a short distance before turning on its left side. The ambulance was called out and arrived in record time but its services were not needed.

News of the accident spread quickly and soon there was a large crowd congregated. Several policemen kept the crowd back and took care of the traffic.

The Oldsmobile was taken to the Surveysant garage. The McFarlan was taken to Forsyth and Davis's garage.

Miss Harrison stated today that she was not driving faster than eighteen or twenty miles an hour, and that she was in no way to blame for the accident.

DAY'S WAR NEWS AT A GLANCE

----------------------------	--

For several weeks Americans have been fighting shoulder to shoulder with the French upon the Picardy front but it was not until today that it was known that part of General Pershing's army had been sent into the northern fighting zone where the British are holding back the Hun.
--	--

The inspiring and important news that Americans are now with the British on the vital Flanders front came to America with an electric thrill. It means that when Von Hindenburg finally renounces his drive, that the boys from the United States will have a part in the great task of beating off what may be the most terrific assaults of the war.
--	--

So far as the censor has permitted it is to be known Americans are now located on the western front at the following places:
--	--

In French Lorraine, north of Toul, on the heights of the Meuse river (On the western edge of the Woeyve Plain), at a certain point in the Champagne district (Between Echemme and the Argonne Forest) where American artillery was reported by the French war office to have reinforced the French in the Chemin des Dames sector, north of the Aisne river, south of Montdidier, and on the front in northern France.

The exact location of the American in northern France was not revealed, as it has been the policy of the military censors to conceal the positions of the United States forces until it is actually known that the Germans possess this information.
--	--

Violent artillery combats continue on the battle fronts, but there has been no break in the infantry deadlock except for minor enterprises which possess no great importance.
---	--

London reported that the artillery activity is increasing at points on the Flanders front, notably between Loona and Hinges and between Moeven and the Nieppe Forest. However, it is impossible to say whether or not this intensive firing to another series of infantry thrusts.
--	--

Bombardments of tremendous fury are still raging in the sector of Halles, southeast of Amiens. The Germans are using up immense quantities of big gun ammunition without following up the cannonades with infantry assaults, so that it has become a matter of mere guesswork to tell when von Hindenburg will strike again.

The thunder of battle never dies out completely along the battle line, but for several weeks now it has become confined largely to artillery and airman. Infantry has been used for raiding and patrol purposes, but there have been no attacks on a grand scale.
---	--

This was the fifty-eighth day of the German offensive.

One of Our Boys in France Goes to Church and Likes the Minister's Daughter Better Than the Sermon.

Camp Dix, N. J., May 11.—Lieutenant Wells, of Co. L, 310th Regiment, has received a letter from Corporal J. Edw. Winchell, stating that he has arrived in France safely. This is what Corporal Winchell writes:
---	--

Somewhere in France, April 18.—I have arrived safely "over here." I am now in Paris. This is sure is a very beautiful country (over here). I have not been assigned to any company yet. Every time a cannon goes off over here I tremble like a leaf. And I am sure you would if you were here. Ha! Ha! I am going to tell you a story. I went to church Sunday morning, and I met a little French girl. She was nice too. Her father is a minister. She has big brown eyes and she had on wooden shoes. Her name is Leah. The sermon was in French. I couldn't understand much of it. Has Co. L, 310th, left Camp Dix yet? Do you remember Roscoe North? Well, I met him over here. He looks fine. I am living a life like a real man now, and not like a soldier. My little French girl invited me over to see her and we had lot of things to eat. All I do now is read the Bible. Well, old top, I will close, hoping to hear from you or see you soon, I am your true friend.
--	--

CORP. J. EDWARD WINCHELL, P. S.—I have no address yet. Col. Hancock states Corporal Winchell will soon be promoted to sergeant.
---	--

---------------------	--

The so-called "Ohio company" of early times was organized in Boston in 1786 for the purpose of buying government land and founding a settlement northwest of the Ohio river. In 1787 its agents contracted with congress for 1,500,000 acres of land and obtained an option for 5,000,000 acres. The company founded the town of Marietta, O., which became an early center of New England influence in the Northwest. The contract made by the Ohio company contained the first national land grant for a university.

Sentiment Uttered by Many.
----------------------------	--

The origin of the expression "In union there is strength" is not known, but the sentiment in various forms has been current a very long time. A Latin author of ancient times said: "By union the smallest states thrive, by discord the greatest are destroyed." The American author of "The Flag of Our Union" said: "United we stand, divided we fall."

Changed Subject of Woe.
-------------------------	--

Irene was crying in bed because her mamma insisted she should wear a certain nightgown. At last mamma said: "Why, Irene, how foolish to cry about that! You'll sleep just as well in that gown as any other." She stopped long enough to say, very dejectedly: "But mamma, you don't know. I've changed my mind and I'm crying about another thing now."

KINGSTON FARM PATRIOT VOLUNTEERS.
Work-a-Day Division.

PLEDGE.

Believing that my country needs my services to help win the war against German Imperialism and Hitherto Hun Butchery, I hereby pledge myself to WORK AT LEAST ONE DAY and at least one day if called upon, on any farm within driving distance of Kingston, during the Spring, Summer or Fall of 1918, when called upon by the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, through the Ulster county Farm Bureau, provided I am transported to and from the farm where I am to work, without cost to me in this giving some farmer my services when he needs me, to save his crops. I will be feeding my country and contributing in this manner to providing more food for our soldier boys in the trenches. It is mutually understood that I am to have at least 24 hours' notice in advance of the day I am expected to go to some farm and work.

Nature's Forethought.

Animals that require great speed in securing their food or escaping their enemies, have no collarbones. The shoulders are fastened to the trunk by muscles. This prevents jarring after a long leap, or, in other words, if they had a collarbone, with the shoulder firmly fixed in it, there would be a tremendous shock when an animal came to the earth after leaping. Nature has looked after it in a common sense way.

Value of Old Shoes.

From one ton of old shoes can be extracted metals to the value of $470; grease, $7.25; animal black, $50; sulphate of ammonia, $22.50; a total of $539.75, or about 15 cents a pair. The grease is a good lubricant and the animal black is sold by M. G. Lamb, the English chemist who is responsible for these figures, to be equal to the best of bone black.

Coal in Caucasus Region.

While peasants were recently digging a well near the village of Tzaridvor, in the Kessau valley, in the Caucasus, coal was found to rest from the surface; the vein, however, was but 2 1/2 feet in thickness. Enough coal has already been found in this particular locality to supply the entire neighborhood, and in all probability there are other and greater deposits not yet located.

The First Primitive Measures.

Doubtless measures of all kinds were originally taken from the human body. An inch is roughly the length of the top joint of the thumb. A span is a quarter of a pace, and a pace is half one's height. The span and the pace were probably the foundation of all measurement, and we will speak quite commonly of so many paces distant.

The Central Fire Station was called at 6 o'clock last night for a slight fire in some rags in a small building in the rear of the residence of Mrs. E. M. Brigham, No. 755 Broadway. The fire was extinguished with a hand extinguisher with little damage. It is believed the fire was started by children playing with matches.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Ruth VanDyke, aged two years, died at 177 Broadway St. Thursday night. The funeral will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence. Funeral private.

Joel Stewart, for many years landlord of the Central Hotel in Saugerties, died at his home in Grinnell, Iowa, on April 28th. He was 85 years of age. Mr. Stewart was a brother of the late John H. Stewart of West Camp and Mrs. A. Timmerman of Palenville.

The funeral of Fred Pietz was held Saturday from the home of his brother-in-law, Paul Biesel, No. 225 Smith street, Brooklyn. Besides his wife, who bore her marriage was Miss Biesel of West Hurley, he is survived by a son, Oswald, and one sister. Mr. Pietz was well known in Kingston and West Hurley and had many friends who will deeply mourn his loss.

Nathaniel Stone died Thursday evening at his home, No. 484 First street, Brooklyn. He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. E. Harder and Mrs. E. Smith, both of Brooklyn. Mr. Stone was an uncle of Mrs. J. Huhne of Abel street, this city. He is a former resident of Woodstock and the funeral will be held Monday at Woodstock.

E. B. Dexter died suddenly in his home in Marlborough early Monday morning from the effects of heart trouble. Mr. Dexter attended church service on Sunday evening, returned home and at 11 p. m. was taken ill. At 1 p. m. he passed away. He was born in Wapuzeters Falls and conducted a store in Brooklyn for a number of years, from whence he came to Marlborough and has conducted a successful dry goods store in Main street for the past 27 years. He is survived by one son, Halls, and two daughters, Esther and Mrs. Alexander Johnson, of Marlborough. Funeral services were held in the house at 2 o'clock Wednesday by the Rev. Robert Knapp. Interment was in Poughkeepsie, where his wife is buried.

Some Use in Sawdust.

The deadly wood alcohol is about as useful an agent as any that results from the distillation process. Manufacturers of films, of shellac and of celluloid require large quantities. Compounds used in medicine and surgery even have it in their make-up. There is an anesthetic made from it, and it is of consequence in formaldehyde manufacture, the uses for which are of wide scope.

The huge annual loss from grass smuts, estimated at from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000, is readily controlled by soaking the seed in this material. Grain alcohol is not produced in this manner, but as it is used in large quantities in munition plants it may as well be mentioned here, especially as the sawdust piles of the mills when spruce and pine are sawn ought to be supplying a good deal of this that is at present derived from molasses.

The unnecessary use of anything sweet for such a purpose goes against the grain of a people who are denying themselves sugar. One ton of sawdust is capable of yielding from 20 to 25 gallons of wood alcohol.

Why Person Freezes to Death.

During the Deep Sleep which follows extreme fatigue the sensitiveness of the nervous system is greatly reduced, and it becomes unable to perceive the lowness of temperature. The unconsciousness of sleep gradually passes into the unconsciousness of collapse. According to the popular belief such a man dies "frozen to death," but as a matter of fact he was killed long before his temperature fell to zero.

What really killed him was the reduction of the activity of his tissue, which always follows the loss of nerve control. As a result there was less and less chemical change accompanied by the production of heat, and at an internal temperature of about 68 degrees life ceased.

That is why, as experience has often shown, the weary traveler who gives way to the imperative desire to sleep on the line of march is doomed to death when he has no adequate protection from extreme cold.

But She Blamed Him Just the Same. Mr. Smith—I see that Mrs. McQue has just passed without speaking. I thought you were great friends.

Mr. Brown—No, we are not on the best of terms just now. Smith—How's that? Brown—Well, you see, it's like this.

You remember the fire that took place at their house about a fortnight ago. Well, I ran for a long plank to get up at the window, so that the night slide down before the fire brigade arrived. But how was I to know there was a nail in it?

Industry Booms in China. The use of motorcars in Hongkong is comparatively limited, but at present there is what might be classed as a motorcar boom in the colony. The government is planning a comprehensive system of road building and improvement, and, in fact, already has started actual work on roads that will extend the use of the motorcar. The weather Chinese have taken to motorcars enthusiastically.
